Pick Jury for Trial in Killing Of Mrs. Liuzzo

Klansman's Case To Be Weighed by Integrated Panel

HAYNEVILLE, Ala. (AP) — A male jury of eight Negroes and four whites was chosen today to try Ku Klux Klansman Eugene Thomas on a murder charge for killing of a white civil rights worker.

Thomas, 43, a Bessemer, Ala. steel company employee, is accused of the slaying of Viola Gregg Liuzzo of Detroit, Mich. A conviction on a first-degree murder charge could bring the death penalty.

Twenty-one Negroes and 11 white men remained on the list of prospective jurors when Atty. Gen. Richmond Flowers and defense attorney Arthur J. Hanes began striking the jury.

Hanes, a former Birmingham mayor, removed 13 Negroes from the list with his strikes; Flowers struck 7 of the 11 white men on the list.

Flowers rebuked Before the jury was chosen, Circuit Court Judge Werth Thagard rebuked Flowers in open court for a statement the attorney general made to newsmen Monday.

Thagard said he took the statement to mean an accusation that Negroes on the venire

INVERNESS, Scotland (AP) — It should have been a great picture.

On the shores of Loch Ness sat the Loch Ness Phenomena Investigation Bureau, reinforced by an American professor.

On the loch, 30 yards away, was the Loch Ness monster, benefactor of the Scottish tourist trade, say the watchers.

"He came up under the very nose of our camera," said Prof. Roy Mackal, a University of Chicago biologist.

Apparently Basking "It appeared to be basking with a great hump sticking 14 feet out of the water. Then it sank, creating a great vortex about 20 feet across."

The monster was so close that the bureau's high speed cameras could not tilt low enough on their mountings to photograph it.

One of the bureau's technicians tried to get it with a hand camera but neglected to remove its telephoto lens. He got an excellent picture of the other side of the loch.

Mackal says he believes the monster is a giant gastropod or sea slug and that the loch holds several of them.

"Later the same day two English women reported seeing humps in the loch," he said.

"Then, at 5:36 p.m., we spotted four humps in the water moving independently. The fish in the vicinity were leaping about in excitement."

Seven-Nation Conference In Manila Tentatively Scheduled for Oct. 18

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson agreed today to attend next month's seven-nation conference of chiefs of state in Manila aimed at trying to end the Vietnamese war.

The conference was set up under the guidance of President Ferdinand Marcos of the Philippines for all the countries with military forces engaged in the conflict.

White House press secretary Bill D. Moyers told reporters: "President Johnson is glad to agree to this invitation and will be glad to join the meeting of the other chiefs of state or government, which are participating nations in the Philippines on or after Oct. 18."

Date Tentative

Moyers said the date is still tentative. As to whether Johnson would use the trip to Manila as a departure point for a major swing through other portions of Southeast Asia, to Australia and New Zealand, for example, the press secretary said that at this point there is no schedule for an onward trip. There have been numerous reports from the area that a Johnson visit is expected.

The journey across the Pacific will take Johnson out of the country in the heat of the political campaign. It, in some aspects, was reminiscent of 1952, when Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower scored toward the close of the presidential campaign with a promise that were he elected, "I will go to Korea."

Proposed Monday

President Marcos proposed the conference Monday night. He invited the allied leaders to meet in Manila to "review the prospects for a peaceful settlement of the conflict" in Viet Nam.

Korea is one of the countries involved in this trip along with Thailand, Australia, New Zealand, South Viet Nam, the Philippines and the United States.

Moyers said he understood that all of the seven countries involved had let Marcos know they would be willing to take part in the Manila session.

How long the conference might last, Moyers was unprepared to say, but he said an agenda now will be worked out.

Varied Agenda

As to the purpose, Moyers quoted an announcement by Marcos in that the conference "presumably would include a review of the military effort in South Viet Nam, but also lay particular stress on the nonmilitary, political, and economic

'Inez' Roars Toward Islands

Another Tropical Storm Forming Off Venezuela Coast

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Hurricane Inez bore down on the French islands of Guadeloupe with 100-mile-an-hour fury today and, 1,000 miles in her wake, another tropical blow appeared to be forming.

The 295,000 residents of Guadeloupe, a chain of seven rum, sugar and coffee producing islands at the eastern end of the Caribbean, batted down against an assault of wind and water expected to reach its height in the afternoon.

New Disturbance

And, 1,000 miles east of Trinidad near the coast of Venezuela, a new disturbance with circulating winds showed up on the map, moving westward along the historic path of hurricanes coming across the Atlantic from their breeding grounds near Africa.

Small craft hurried into safe harbors through most of the Leeward and Windward Islands as Inez approached, pushing up great tides and swells. Guadeloupe is a part of the Leeward chain.

The Weather Bureau warned those living in exposed coastal areas to evacuate immediately.

County Home Rule Depends On Changes in Constitution

Boards Association Addressed By Executive From Milwaukee

BY BILL KNUTSON
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

LA CROSSE — A high-ranking Milwaukee County government figure and former state assemblyman Monday called for a state constitutional convention as the most effective method of securing home rule for Wisconsin counties.

The action was urged by John L. Doyne, Milwaukee County executive, a keynote speaker at the opening general session of the Wisconsin County Boards Association three-day convention here.

Doyne charged that county government in Wisconsin "is in a constitutional strait jacket."

Both Bugged Down

Some 200 supervisors from 69 of the state's 72 counties were told that restrictive provisions in Wisconsin's "118-year-old, archaic state constitution" in many ways prevents counties from "taking care of their internal housekeeping problems" without first going to the Legislature for enabling laws.

Such a situation, Doyne said,

"bogs down" both the Legislature and the county boards.

Doyne, who defined "county home rule" as the right of a county to determine its own governmental organization and procedures, outlined several reasons provision should be made for home rule in Wisconsin.

Chief among the reasons was that many counties are "providing services which are municipal in nature and county boards should be permitted to establish a government able to provide the services economically and efficiently."

Give Voters Power

Home rule, Doyne said, could also serve to bring county governments — especially those in urban areas — "up to date." A third reason for home rule, he said, is to give the voters the power to determine their own government's needs and then provide suitable governmental organization.

Michigan, he said, recently enacted a home rule law.

Doyne cited three major constitutional obstacles to "streamlining" Wisconsin county government. The "strait jacket provisions," as he labeled them, are:

—The uniformity clause of the constitution which provides for a single, uniform system of town and county government.

—A section which states in effect, that counties shall have only those powers explicitly delegated by the state legislature.

—A provision which spells out what officers the county must have, how they will be elected, and how long they will serve.

The restrictions, Doyne contended, do not take into consideration variations in population, size, economic wealth and needs of the 72 counties, and fails to recognize that it may not be desirable to have one county government operate the same as all others.

Doyne was especially critical of the provision dictating the state of county officials.

It was proposed in Milwaukee

State Department Post

Katzenbach Lists His Qualifications

WASHINGTON (AP) — Atty. Gen. Nicholas Katzenbach told senators today that anyone who fought in World War II and "lost friends in that war" is interested in keeping peace in the world.

He gave that reply at a Senate Foreign Relations Committee hearing when he was asked about his qualifications to be undersecretary of state. The committee is considering President Johnson's nomination of Katzenbach for the State Department's No. 2 post.

Ask Waiver Katzenbach fought in Europe and was a prisoner of war during World War II.

Committee Chairman J. W. Fulbright, D-Ark., said he had received a letter from the present undersecretary, George W. Ball, asking the group to waive its six-day rule so that Katzenbach would be able to take over his duties when Ball's resignation takes effect Oct. 1.

The rule requires that such nominations be held in the committee for at least six days before they are sent to the Senate for confirmation.

Under questioning, Katzenbach endorsed the U.S. policy of opposing Red China's entrance into the United Nations. But he said he doesn't regard it as "immutable for all time."

Welcomes Assertion Fulbright, who has run into some criticism for his own opposition to U.S. policies in Viet Nam, welcomed an assertion by Katzenbach that "I believe in criticism."

Peering over his glasses, Fulbright gave Katzenbach a surprised look, saying "You don't object to criticism?"

Fulbright: "That's good to know. That's a new thought." Katzenbach, a former Rhodes scholar, said he is "one of the few people who have read most of the works of Lenin."

And he added: "I don't recommend them. They are very dull."

Mansfield "Delighted" Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield said he was "delighted the President presented your name. I can think of no better choice."

The Montana senator said Ball "has done a most effective job in being the devil's advocate" in raising questions about administration policy.

"I would hope the devil's advocate would not be lost with your appointment," Mansfield told Katzenbach. "I hope you undertake that responsibility so the President can have the benefit of all sides of all questions."

Sen. Bourke B. Hickenlooper, R-Iowa, raised the question of why Katzenbach was leaving "a Cabinet post, one of the most important jobs in the government, to take a secondary job in the State Department."

"Because the President asked me to," replied the attorney general. "If he believes that's where I can best serve, that's what I want to do."

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson and Chancellor Ludwig Erhard of West Germany concluded two days of talks today and fly to Cape Kennedy for a look at the American spaceport.

The four hours of flying also gave them an extra chance to try and resolve Germany's request for a moratorium of four or five years in fully living up to its agreement to purchase $1.35 billion worth of U.S. military goods by mid-1967.

based on realism — "If we are prepared to give up our freedom, we can have peace any time. But what kind of peace would this be? It would be one built on sand."

Status Quo

The West, he continued, should not be deceived by thinking that the Soviets want nothing else but to preserve the status quo in the world.

"They offer us the status quo in various disguises with all its accompanying dangers," he said.

"Those who seek to solidify the status quo are in effect asking the United States, the freest land on earth, to assume the role of a partner in the suppression of freedom, and us Germans to accept the Berlin wall," he added.

He said negotiations with the Soviets "must not be based on the assumption that things should be allowed to remain as they are. All freedom loving people must feel that the current situation is unbearable."

Striking Evidence

"This and nothing else threatens freedom. The wall in Berlin is the most striking evidence of this."

Pledging that West Germany will continue its efforts to end, by peaceful means, "the tragic division of Germany," Erhard touched briefly about the "historic task" of the United States in fighting aggression in Viet Nam.

While his country is not engaged in this war, Erhard said "We know that Americans daily risk their lives for freedom in Viet Nam, indeed we Germans vividly perceive our own feelings engaged. For this you have our thanks. The Viet Nam problem serves to show the free world what is at stake," he said.

Policies for Peace

Erhard discussing some "practicable policies for peace," suggested:

— A "common evaluation" of Communist policies and goals.

— A "coordinated (Western) diplomacy which would capitalize on the dilemma of the Communists."

— Western policy toward the East "must not awaken Soviet fears of Western attempts at subversion."

— Bilateral declarations renouncing the use of force might remove "fear and mistrust."

— Renewed efforts for disarmament.

S. Korean Tiger Division Drives Reds Through Viet Nam Mountains

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — Infantrymen of the South Korean Tiger Division reported killing 92 Viet Cong today to run the total enemy dead to 300 in five-days of mountain fighting near South Viet Nam's central coast.

While the Tiger Division drove against the Communists in the Phu Cat Mountains, 4,000 more troops of the 9th Korean White Horse Division landed in Viet Nam.

The new arrivals, making up the division's 29th Regiment, raised to 36,500 the Korean forces opposing the Communists there.

Other Action

Elsewhere in South Viet Nam, only scattered, small ground action was reported. But the U.S. air offensive over North Viet Nam continued and giant B52 bombers again plastered Communist infiltration routes in the demilitarized zone.

U.S. planes attacked oil and supply dumps in North Viet Nam Monday and dropped 500-pound bombs on Communist storage areas in the demilitarized zone.

The eight-engine bombers, flying in from Guam before dawn today also unloaded tons of explosives on North Vietnamese supply dumps inside the buffer zone.

Tactical Bombers

Augmenting these heavy strikes, smaller tactical bombers struck at the western corner of the demilitarized zone. Air Force F4 Phantoms pounded a truck park and an oil dump and pilots reported five secondary explosions and eight fires from their strikes.

Over North Viet Nam Monday, American strike bombers flew 121 missions and the raids cost them one plane. A spokesman said an F105 Thunderchief was shot down and the pilot is missing. It was the 387th plane reported lost over the north in the war.

The raids ranged from the Hanoi-Haiphong areas down to the southern panhandle and pilots claimed destroying or damaging 33 cargo barges, 16 bridges, 13 anti-aircraft gun sites and 10 trucks.

Oil Dump Area

Air Force F105 Thunderchiefs pounded an oil storage area 40 miles northwest of Hanoi, the Communist capital, with 750-pound bombs. Pilots said they left a huge fire.

Navy pilots from the carrier Oriskany claimed they knocked out three buildings and damaged a fourth in a North Vietnamese military storage depot.

Hearings Planned on Change In State Job Insurance Laws

Unemployment Compensation Revisions Under State Study

MADISON — At a time when employment and wages are being maintained at record levels, the State Unemployment Compensation Administration is preparing for possible changes in the state job insurance law that may be submitted to the Legislature next winter.

An advisory committee of the State Industrial Commission will conduct a series of hearings around the state in October to hear testimony from employee and employer representatives on coverage, duration of benefits and the scale of benefits provided under the system designed to pay awards to employees who lose their jobs. The system has been steadily broadened since it was established more than three decades ago.

Perennial Issue
One of the perennial issues is inclusion of smaller employers. Under present law, coverage is extended to employment units of four or more. Some interests advocate universal coverage, but the proposal has encountered stern resistance from smaller merchants and other proprietors.

The public hearings will be in Eau Claire on Oct. 21, in Wisconsin Rapids on Oct. 28, and in Milwaukee on Nov. 18.

The deliberations in preparation for the next Legislature will be the last in which Paul Raushenbush, the veteran fund manager, will participate officially. He will retire at the end of the year from the job he has held since the program was established. The State Bureau of Personnel is conducting examinations to recruit his successor.

Water Pollution Leader Expected To be Named

MADISON (AP) — The man who will guide Wisconsin's new attack on water pollution is expected to be picked Thursday.

The seven-man board overseeing the newly reorganized Department of Resource Development stated a meeting in the capitol to make the formal selection after a series of interviews with 14 applicants for the post from throughout the nation.

In another development Monday, the attorney general's office took the first step to ask the Wisconsin Supreme Court to review the 1966 law which created the new assault on pollution.

The court review is a routine move intended to confirm the constitutionality of the law before the department begins

LBJ Makes Peace Plea to Soviets in Magazine Amerika

President Points Out Nations Would Have Much to Lose by War

MOSCOW (AP) — President Johnson said today that the Russian and American people "are more naturally friends than enemies" and that "no two nations have more to lose in war than the United States or the Soviet Union."

The President made his plea for peace between the two great powers in an interview in the 10th anniversary issue of Amerika, the U.S. State Department's Russian-language magazine sold in the Soviet Union.

"As great powers our two nations will undoubtedly have commitments that will conflict," Johnson told the Russian people.

"But there is one commitment I hope we both share—the commitment to a warless world." The President's plea came at a time when the United States is under constant attack from the Soviet press and government for its policy in Viet Nam.

Johnson said in a two-page interview: "As President of the United States, as a citizen of this troubled planet, as the father of two daughters who want to bring children into a peaceful world, I say we not only want peace—we in America are willing to expend every effort to achieve this goal."

He made no specific mention of Viet Nam and voiced no criticism of the Soviet government but confined himself to generalities about problems between the two countries and the need for peaceful solutions.

"This decade of progress has undermined the goals of those who have preached that the ideological differences between America and the Soviet Union must inevitably lead to war," Johnson said.

Work Together
"We now see that we both prosper in spite of differences." The President recommended that the United States and the Soviet Union work together for progress in disarmament, space exploration, medical research and communications.

"I would like to see us exchange goods and ideas and technology—all the means of achieving common progress and prosperity," he said.

"I think there's considerable good soil for U.S.-Soviet relations to grow and prosper with the right cultivation and care," the President said.

"We have more in common than we sometimes realize. I have considerable faith in the people of the Soviet Union."

"We are not the only ones building on our dreams. Think of what the Soviet people have accomplished after experiencing a most destructive war in which they lost 20 million people. They have not only rebuilt their country, but they also have achieved splendid technological accomplishments."

"Neither country would like to see all these advances go up in smoke."

Space Success 'Staggering'

Walk, Work Harder Than Thought, Official Reveals

MANNED SPACE CENTER, Houston, Tex. (AP) — Project Gemini, proving ground for the U.S. effort to land men on the moon, has been so successful, one official said, it "staggered our imagination." But he said it uncovered a problem—working in space is not as simple as once thought.

Navy Lt. Cmdr. Richard F. Gordon Jr., a man who tried working outside Gemini 11, said that no astronaut should be expected to do anything but "simple tasks" while outside a spaceship until he is equipped with some sort of body restraints to help him maintain position.

Gordon's advice, and the experience of other spacewalkers who have found trouble spots in space walking, has caused officials to step into a detailed study of plans for the last two-man mission, Gemini 12, before moving into the Apollo moon-landing program.

Exotic Rendezvous
Gemini 12's exotic rendezvous and spacewalk flight currently calls for Air Force Maj. Edwin E. Aldrin Jr. to shoot through space with a jet-propelled pack on his back. Aldrin and Navy Capt. James A. Lovell Jr. are to set out on the four-day mission Oct. 31.

Gordon cut a 115-minute space walk to 44 minutes because he worked so hard sweat poured into his eyes. The problem, he said, was not that he had too much to do, but rather he had difficulty keeping himself in position.

"About 80 per cent of the work outside was concerned with body position," he told a news conference at the Manned Spacecraft Center Monday about the record-shattering flight he took with Navy Cmdr. Charles Conrad Jr.

He and Conrad splashed back to earth Sept. 15 after three days aloft.

Gordon expressed confidence that the United States could solve the problem of space walking by providing some sort of restraints to keep a man in position, but in the meantime "we have to keep tasks simple."

Banker to Make Appeal

U.S. Supreme Court to be Asked To Study Legality of Lobby Probe

MADISON (AP) — The attorney for a Milwaukee banker indicted on a bribery charge says he will ask the U. S. Supreme Court to decide whether a grand jury investigation of lobbying in the Wisconsin Legislature was legal.

The move was revealed in a Madison court Monday minutes after the Wisconsin Supreme Court refused to intervene in the arraignment of Howard Meister, president of the West Side Bank of Milwaukee.

Circuit Judge Edwin Wilkie of Madison set trial for Nov. 15. He granted a one-week postponement of Meister's arraignment so that defense attorney Norman Skogstad could return to the State Supreme court and ask for a longer delay. The extended delay would allow him time to take the case to the U.S. Supreme Court.

Proper Investigation
Skogstad said he wants to ask the nation's highest court to block the trial until it can consider whether the grand jury probe was conducted properly. Meister's attorneys have lost similar arguments in Wilkie's court.

Meister, a former Democratic party chairman in Milwaukee

County, is charged with instructing Miss Dorothy Effinger, a lobbyist for the West Side Bank, to offer money to Assemblyman Earl Elfers, D-Trevor, in an attempt to influence his vote on a branch banking bill in June, 1965.

Chief Justice George R. Currie of the Wisconsin Supreme Court turned down Skogstad's request Monday that he step into the case and halt the arraignment proceedings until the state highest court had an opportunity to decide whether the grand jury probe was legal.

Postponement Refused
Judge Wilkie refused to give Skogstad a postponement while the defense takes the same argument to the U. S. Supreme Court.

But he set back Meister's arraignment until next Monday to allow the Milwaukee attorney time to ask the state Supreme Court for a longer postponement while the request to the U. S. court is being made.

Monday's bid before Justice Currie was the third trip to the State Supreme Court for Meister, whose attorneys asked twice without success for the justices to block the indictment before it was made public June 22.

Meister was indicted on the same day as were Assemblymen Paul R. Alfonsi, R-Minocqua, and Willis J. Hutnik, R-Ladysmith.

Alfonsi is appealing his conviction on a charge of accepting a $100 expense check as a bribe. The state has said it will appeal a judge's directed verdict acquitting Hutnik in his bribery trial last month.

Trials are still pending for six banks and a banking association accused of failing to meet requirements for lobbying and for a banker and a conservation lobbyist accused of false swearing before the grand jury.

Fumes Kill Baby; Women in Critical Condition

TOMAHAWK (AP) — Two young women were in critical condition Monday after being found overcome by fumes from an oil heater with the child of one of them dead nearby.

Mrs. Crystal Maki, 18, formerly of Colby, and Diana Smazal, 19, of rural Abbotsford, who was visiting Mrs. Maki, were taken to a Tomahawk hospital after being found unconscious.

Mrs. Maki's 18-month-old son, Randy, died of asphyxiation, Oneida County authorities said.

The victims were found in a small dwelling about 15 miles northwest of Tomahawk. The house is owned by Mrs. Maki's mother, Mrs. Ila Manninen, who was not at home.

Fire officials said the victims were overcome by fumes forced from an oil space heater by soot that was clogging a smoke stack.

Chrysler, Ford Follow GMC's Lower Increase

Price Reductions Included Changing Equipment to Extras

DETROIT (AP) — Chrysler Corp. today followed Ford's lead and called off a big chunk of a proposed increase in 1967 auto prices. The twin move was aimed at keeping them more competitive with General Motors prices.

Ford, first of the auto makers to announce a price increase which it said averaged $107 a car, chopped $41 from that amount Monday night just four days before its 1967 cars go on sale.

Chrysler, second to list prices and second to cut back on them, said its new car stickers will average $68 more than 1966 base prices. Originally, Chrysler had announced increases which figured out to $103.

Change to Optional
Chrysler said it revised 1967 prices to "include a change from standard to optional on the outside remote control rear view mirror on all Chrysler cars except Imperial on which it will continue as standard."

The company gave no other explanation of its decision to roll back prices, but the explanation was obvious. Both Chrysler and Ford had been caught off balance when, after they had announced price increases for their forthcoming new models, General Motors — giant of the industry — came up with smaller increases.

That put the pressure on Chrysler and Ford and the price revisions followed.

Ford made automotive history Monday night when it became the first major auto producer ever to roll back its prices after they had been announced publicly.

Ford, which figured its original price increases averaged $107 a car, cut $41 from that increase, leaving price tags on the new cars which go on sale Friday an average of $66 over those of a year ago.

American Motors, fourth largest of the auto firms, is to announce its prices a couple of days before its cars go on sale Oct. 6.

Ford, first of the auto companies to announce 1967 prices on Sept. 20, bore the brunt of criticism ranging from the White

'Peking Wants Peace' China Claims U.S. Rejected Proposals

TOKYO (AP) — Communist China's premier and foreign minister were quoted today as insisting their country has wanted to settle differences with the United States but that Washington has not met Peking's proposals.

Premier Chou En-lai and Foreign Minister Chen Yi had long separate talks with a group of Liberal Democratic members of Japan's Parliament earlier this month. Japanese newspapers printed what they said were virtual transcripts of the statements by the Chinese leaders.

They gave this account: Chou said Peking entered the Warsaw talks in 1955 because the Chinese people wanted to become friends with the American people by solving all pending problems between the two governments including Formosa.

Channel Open
Chou said Washington had rebuffed Peking's proposals, which included Communist occupation of Formosa. He indicated, however, that the Warsaw channel was still open.

Chen Yi said he reads 10 American newspapers each day, listens to the Voice of America and watches U.S. trends, but he House to Solidarity House, home of the United Auto Workers.

President Johnson called Ford's original prices regrettable and UAW President Walter Reuther described them as "scandalous and shocking."

Federal Pressure Responsible

Racial Strife No Longer Centers on Birmingham

By ROSS M. HAGEN
BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP) — While bricks and bottles fly in many other areas of the country, this onetime citadel of segregation is experiencing steady improvement in its racial relations.

There are still problems. But compared with three years ago, Birmingham is a new city.

Scars still remain from the civil rights demonstrations led by Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. in the spring of 1963. Nearly 3,000 persons were jailed in the protest marches which led to a breach in the segregation ramparts.

Today Birmingham seems to have recovered fully from the strife which brought the city international notoriety. Mayor Negroes who surrounded his car in the supermarket parking lot. A grand jury refused to indict him after he had testified that the Negroes—some of them pickets—bounced his car. The boycott ended when the supermarket agreed to upgrade its Negro employees. Other supermarkets have taken similar action.

Today Negroes and whites quietly share public golf courses; the city has integrated its police force and has added Negro clerical help; hospitals have quietly desegregated their facilities; more than 600 Negroes will be attending formerly all-white schools in the metropolitan area.

Federal Pressure
Pressure from the federal government is responsible for many of the gains Negroes have made in the fields of employment and public accommodations.

But the significant fact, most agree, is that the city has accepted these changes without bitterness toward the Negro. There is much ill feeling toward civil rights leaders, such as King, and the federal government. But a general feeling of goodwill persists between the races.

Nixon believes the Negro will be fully accepted in the Birmingham community "when he musters enough voting power."

"Both the Democrats and Republicans are frantically trying to get the over 250,000 Negro votes (statewide) this November," Nixon said, "and we are doggedly insisting on certain concessions before we pledge our support."

Powerful Enough
He said the Negroes "have enough power to deny a candidate a seat. The answer is in the ballot."

"Not all is on the rosy side, in Nixon's opinion."

"Many industries and employers still have a different standard for whites and Negroes," he said. "As an example, we sent a girl to a firm which advertised for a secretary. She was told she had to be able to type 90 words a minute and take dictation at the rate of 150 words a minute. And all this for $65 a week. At the same time a white girl had to meet only half those requirements."

On the other hand, Nixon said "meaningful" steps have been taken by some employers. He singled out U.S. Pipe & Foundry as "the only one that has completely and fairly come to grips with the problem and gone all the way in the fields of equal opportunity, job training and retraining."

He said it had taken demonstrations to win Negro demands from the U.S. Steel Corp. But, he said, U. S. Steel now has moved to upgrade Negroes in their jobs and has even named a Negro as an attorney.

Nixon said his organization was concentrating on employment.

"You have to earn enough money to afford a better living," he said.

Nixon pointed out that a Negro janitor in the public schools as a take-home pay of $97 a month. Elevator operators and maids get $20 a week.

"This is slavery," Nixon said. "They're in a box, but they've got to work to live. And they (the whites) tell us about welfare."

The Negro leader said that "on the other hand, there are some whites dedicated to seeing to it that the Negro citizen has equal opportunities. They are few in number, but we are thankful for these."

Federal and state programs probably played a highly important part in preventing any racial discord on Birmingham's streets this summer.

The Alabama State Employment Service opened a youth opportunity center last March to provide special counseling and job information for youngsters. By July the center had registered almost 8,000.

A similar operation was conducted by Youthpower, Inc., a volunteer private nonprofit group which provided part-time jobs for youngsters.

Summer programs were operated under the Office of Economic Opportunity neighborhood youth corps.

The Head Start program is giving 1,957 preschool children a

More Disorder?
Will Birmingham have more racial disorder?

No one can say for sure, of course, but Mayor Boutwell doesn't think so.

"When the Negro leaders down here saw what was happening in the Northern cities—the riots, the violence, the bloodshed—they realized they had a bear by the tail, and discord since has diminished sharply," Boutwell said.

He claims the backing of the power structure of the Negro community—men such as attorney Arthur Shores and millionaire businessman A. G. Gaston.

"The door to my office is open to anyone in the city, regardless of his race, color or creed," was a campaign pledge of Boutwell.

Robert L. Vasser, 27, a checker in a Birmingham supermarket, is the first of his race to attain so high a position in a store serving both whites and Negroes. (AP Wirephoto)

Albert Boutwell and others claim much of it was not justified.

The key, both white and Negro leaders agree, is an open line of communications between the Negro community and City Hall.

'Dragging' His Feet
"We have an entree to the mayor's office," said Dr. John Nixon, president of the Alabama Chapter of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People.

Nixon, a Negro dentist, complained, however, that Boutwell is "dragging his feet. It takes more. We are not getting enough results from the city."

But Nixon said that the current situation is much better than it was under the old City Commission, dominated by segregationist Eugene (Bull) Connor, now president of the Alabama Public Service Commission.

The city threw out the three-man City Commission form of government in favor of a mayor and nine-member council one day before King launched his 1963 campaign. The Southern Christian Leadership Conference (SCLC) chairman said he had waited until after the election to avoid influencing the vote.

Series of Marches
The city has had no racial disturbances since last winter when the SCLC staged a series of voter-registration marches. There was no violence, and the marches ended when the Justice Department sent federal voter examiners to the city.

An incident occurred during a boycott of a downtown supermarket when a young white ex-Marine shot and wounded five

GOP Offers No Alternative on Viet Nam

Congressman Melvin Laird has charged that the Johnson Administration intends to increase the number of American troops in Viet Nam but not until after the November elections and that it will not announce such intentions until then either. He points to the "no wider war" slogan President Johnson used in his 1964 campaigning and how it was forgotten after the elections.

However the United States was persuaded to increase its troop strength in Viet Nam and the bombing raids on the North, there has been a wide contrast between official statements of intention and action. It can be argued that President Johnson believed in 1964 that no further American increases would be necessary to deter Communist aggression in South Viet Nam. But a former Johnson aide has made the most serious charges about "widespread deception."

Richard Goodwin, former advisor and speechwriter to both President Kennedy and President Johnson, says that "we are buried in statements and speeches about negotiation and peace, the defense of freedom and the dangers of Communism, the desire to protect the helpless and compassion for the dying. Much of it is important and sincere and well meaning. Some is intended to deceive. Some is deliberate lie and distortion."

Goodwin claims that the bombing of North Viet Nam has been a serious failure and he calls for an end to the bombing but a continuation of American involvement in South Viet Nam. Since apparently the bombing raids were resumed in order to put more pressure on North Viet Nam to negotiate rather than really to cut back Hanoi's capacity for making war, the strategy so far has failed. But Goodwin's major objections are to the fact that information on the war is "deeply obscured" in government announcements. "By its nature, war is hostile to truth. Yet with full allowance for necessary uncertainties, I believe there has never been such intense and widespread deception and

The Red Guard or the Boy Scouts

Dispatches from Communist China in recent weeks have told of the Red Guard, a youth group reminiscent of the Hitler Youth which has been terrorizing the population. While the announcement that a select group of men and young adults will train Boy Scout leaders in the Fox Valley area made smaller headlines, this news is equally important.

The two stories contrast well one of the differences between Communism and democracy. While Communism, with its emphasis on the state, subdues its people if necessary to get them "in line," democracy allows its citizens to pursue a free course, as long as no one else is injured.

Thus men give unwillingly of their time to train the leaders of tomorrow in the Boy Scout movement. These men, whose names will be known to few but whose deeds may

Useful Legislative Work

The joint Legislative Council at Madison may sometimes appear to the casual reader of statehouse news dispatches to be disposed toward long-winded discussions of trivia, and to be used too often by some of its members as a publicity sounding board. The most recent meeting of the Council, for example, perhaps because of the natural preoccupation of legislators with their home district campaign worries, could have been avoided altogether without any hurt to the state government as a whole.

Yet the Council has often performed with significant benefit, as in its patient recodification work in major chapters of state law such as the criminal code, the children's code, the motor vehicle code, and others of recent years. Currently it is pertinent to observe that it has undertaken a potentially significant task, albeit it will be a protracted and enervating one, in the first real revision of the vital insurance supervision and regulation laws of the state that has ever been attempted.

Much of this labor will involve the technical aspects of statute writing in the interest of clarity, consistency and simplicity. But there will be demands and opportunities for substantive revisions also, in a field which touches intimately the economic concerns of nearly every inhabitant of the state in an era of universal insurance buying in numerous categories.

Looking Backward

Peat Industry Looks Promising

100 YEARS AGO
Quoted from the Appleton Post for Sept. 20, 1866.

Mr. H. A. Foster (Appleton druggist and owner of early drugstore) has shown us a sample of pressed peat from the works now in operation near Mayville, in this state.

The piece is about equal in bulk to a cup four inches on the edge — very dark in color — made so dense by the pressure as to weigh almost as much as a lump of coal of the same size.

The process it has been confusion as that which surrounds this war."

While the Johnson Administration has understandably praised the success of the Vietnamese elections under conditions of war, it has said very little about reported near chaotic conditions in the South Viet Nam military. According to New York Times reporter Neil Sheehan, the United States now bears the brunt of offensive fighting. There were 96,000 desertions among the South Vietnamese ranks last year and the rate remains at the same level. Advancement goes to those who curry favor and there are charges of personal profit among some of the generals. Furthermore, the number of American troops are nearing the number of South Vietnamese. South Viet Nam is supposed to have more than 600,000 men under arms but some are in the Regional Forces and the Popular Forces and are not even as effective as the regular army. And American military officials, according to Sheehan, say that four regular army divisions are "combat ineffective" in that they cannot or will not fight.

While Secretary McNamara in recent months explains that while this probably will be a long war we are at last winning it, he did not tell the American public in 1965 that only the intervention of American ground troops prevented a Communist victory. And surely President Johnson in 1964 was aware or should have been of Viet Cong strength.

Republicans do have a strong political issue in their criticism both of our Vietnamese policies and the lack of candor from Washington as to the seriousness of the war. Unfortunately, their last week's paper does not offer any solution other than a vague reference to winning the war in a hurry which implies an increase in American involvement — and casualties.

Americans might like to have some alternatives offered before they vote in November but they appear to be coming only from dissident Democrats.

indirectly influence many, deserve the commendation and thanks of the communities they serve.

It is easy to bemoan the fact that newspapers give larger headlines and more type to stories concerning juvenile delinquency rather than telling about the 98 per cent of the American youth who are not delinquents. One way each individual can help compensate for this at times exaggerated but also necessary situation is by thanking those who have given of their free time to help their children grow to adulthood and the ability to face the responsibilities of life.

This too is a revolution. Although it is a quiet one, it may have much more far-reaching results than changing the names of Chinese streets or forcing people to wear different clothing.

regulation have erupted in the political arena. An example is the problem of insurance contract cancellation, a vital subject indeed to the consumer concerned, that has turned up in the legislature with more frequency in recent sessions. Politicians currently are disputing the rules about the method of establishing and regulating rates. Should these matters be public proceedings, as some of them have demanded? The insurance professionals evidently have some valid counter-arguments. But the question deserves a review, with as much thoroughness and detachment as this blue ribbon study committee of the council can provide.

Most Wisconsin citizens with a moment's reflection will realize how important as an economic fact of life is their own insurance program, covering fire and casualty, life, and health and accident, in the typical family situation and yet other contracts for the business proprietor including such sizeable liabilities as workmen's compensation coverage. But the aggregate impact of such purchases is truly staggering. The state insurance department reports that in 1964 the total of premiums written in Wisconsin, for all lines, reached nearly $923,000,000. This year the total is almost surely more than a billion dollars. A single comparison will illustrate. That is an amount of money just about equal to the gross farm income of this state with its immense livestock industry.

through has destroyed all the stringiness which it has when first dug from the bog, and has made it gramy instead.

Wood is so plentiful in this part of the State that we don't need peat for our own use. But down in the prairie country, where wood brings $8 to $15 a cord, there will be a large and lasting market for it. People find that it will do the work of wood and at less cost.

Indeed, we are satisfied that in less than five years, the shipment of processed peat from these parts southward will be heavy, and that our peat bogs will be reckoned amongst our valuable resources.

How Can We Preserve The Good in America?

Editor, Post-Crescent:

I have been reading with interest the Letters to the Editor concerning horse shows, curfew and other important issues. There are, however, some facts which are so vital to the very existence of our country that I wonder if other people are also considering them.

What is happening to this fine country for which my forefathers and yours fought and developed into the finest most powerful country in the world? Is there some diabolical force at work that I do not understand?

The judiciary department is becoming a shambles. Policemen in all parts of the country are quitting to go into industry or business which is less frustrating and better paid — and less dangerous. There is no doubt that the young people of the country are being systematically demoralized with the traffic in drugs and alcohol — and there is no difference pharmacologically.

In my life time we have fought three wars, all in the name of freedom and democracy, but as we look back to them what actually has been accomplished? Years ago the communists spelled out their plans to spread all over the world — and eventually bury us. They are doing just this and with our full cooperation. We are even lending the money to them in order that they might accomplish this project. It is physically and economically impossible to put out the grass fires all over the globe. If we really meant to fight communism why did we pass up the needs of Hungary when her people were ready and willing to fight? We promised the help — but they never got it.

Why did we do nothing to help Cuba which is stones throw from our own coast? In the same breath we are sending men half way around the world to fight a war in Viet Nam — despite the fact that some of our best military men have advised us to keep out of a land war in Southeast Asia. Why are we selling food to the Russians to fill their bellies while they supply our enemy with guns, ammunition and air-craft? Why are we allowing ships to pass through the Panama Canal with cargo destined for the same place? Is this fighting communism? We are no longer as rich and powerful as we once were, any number of countries have the power to break us economically.

One of the more recent little pieces of business the lawmakers put over on us was Medicare. The private patient is paying for this in two ways: by the taxes and social security that is deducted from his hard pressed check and in the price he pays for his own hospital bed when he becomes a patient. Let us not be so gullible, ask the nearest hospital administrator what is happening to his budget.

I am really sorry to report that I am not a member of the Birch Society or that I am not a Minute Man — at least I would have the comfort of knowing that I had done something positive to counteract this evil thing that is being perpetrated. The late Senator McCarthy was excoriated in the press and elsewhere and made to be the fool. Would that I could die knowing that I had put forth just one jot of the effort that he did while he lived. I wonder who put an end to him? He made things very uncomfortable for some of our scarlet countrymen while he was around.

The United States is still one of the few good places to live in the world — I wonder how long it will remain so: K.F.

If Teen-Agers Need Curfew Let the Parents Set It

Editor, Post-Crescent:

How ridiculous, Appleton with a curfew. If you, L.E.P., think that is the answer, you are wrong. There are a number of dark hours up to 11:00 p.m. for the vandalism to occur. The man beaten in an attempt to stop senseless destruction of a traffic sign could happen directly after dark. If there is a curfew, let it be the parents to set it, they should know their children well enough to know whether curfew hours are necessary.

Certain hours regardless should be set for all teenagers by their parents. We cannot punish the good because of the bad. This is a free country, and I think if parents paid more attention, let their children know they are loved and wanted, kids would have a reason to stay home more and not have to look for destructive activities.

At 12:00 deadline for Fridays, and other days 11:00, sound a siren at these hours, never!

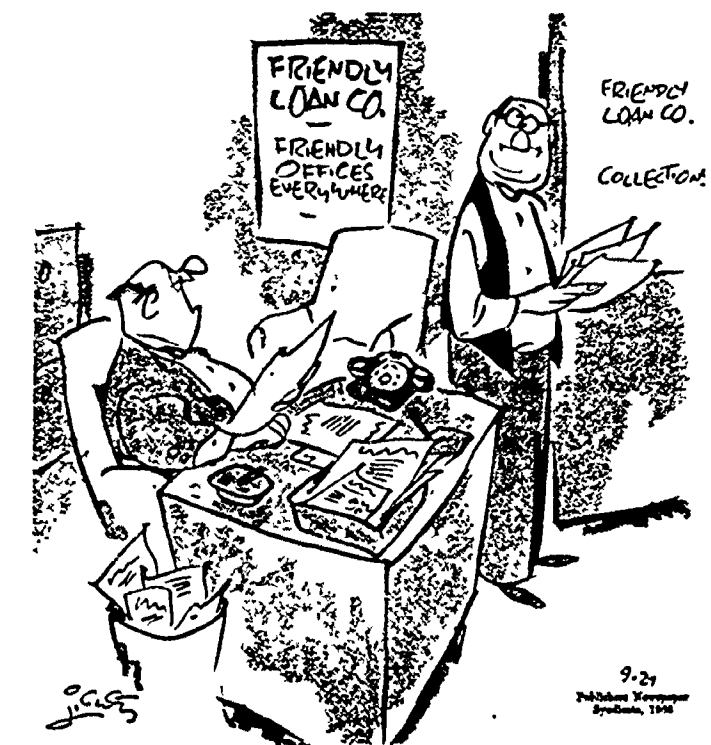

Get an after hours card issued monthly or annually by the police department, never! There will be problems you say, L.E.P. You think there are problems now, try something such as a curfew and we will have problems. Let's keep Appleton a good place to live, you bet, but let's keep the feeling of freedom. Remember just because Bessie kicks down the fence doesn't mean put all the cows in the barn. Parents can curfew their children according to age and known activities.

How about Heaven's Devils? They caused destruction in our county. They did this during daytime hours. Who is to say all the vandalism after dark is caused by children of Appleton? Who can make such a blind statement?

Politicians Like the Ladies, Particularly If They're Workers

John Wyngaard, Madison correspondent, is on vacation and has arranged for a series of guest columns to be published during his absence. Contributors will include prominent figures in Wisconsin governmental and political affairs.

BY GEORGE GREILEY
MADISON — Gentlemen politicians in the Republican Party prefer blondes . . . brunettes . . . redheads . . . and any of the hues that women's crowning glory comes in.

In short, we prefer to work with the ladies when it comes to a political campaign, and want as many of them as we can get.

Women are wonderful workers. They are good organizers, reliable and resilient. They are excellent when it comes to the critical follow-through which makes all the difference in an election.

Give a woman a political assignment and a pot of coffee and she tackles it with all the determination she brings to autumn house cleaning.

It also seems that the ladies prefer us. They take to politics like a duck to water. Their interest runs extremely high; they are natural partisans with a lot of fight. And, they turn out at the polls on election day en masse. It is estimated that better than 55 per cent of those who actually vote are women.

Perhaps one of the reasons for the strong participation of the woman volunteer in politics is that she sees its effect on her daily life from morning to night. The man holding a job is acutely aware of government and politics when he gets his paycheck and notes the deductions made for taxes. The housewife looks at what is left of the paycheck and translates it into how much food she can buy, and of what quality. How much money is left over for the children's clothes — can we budget for a car, a vacation, dental work, or new furniture for the house!

LADIES ATTENTIVE
The lady of the household is conscious of the actions of the local school board, which is another taxing unit of government. She pays attention to the park board and its development of recreational facilities for the youngsters. She knows about municipal services, from garbage pickup to police and fire protection.

There is politics in all of these, as there should be, for politics is the art of government.

The Republican Party of Wisconsin offers the lady volunteer top political posts throughout its structure.

Take the county Republican unit. The two vital positions in the county are chairman and vice chairman. In the Republican Party, one of these posts (it doesn't matter which) must go to a woman. It is not unusual for a lady to hold the key assignment, that of chairman. Mrs. Lorraine Peterson of Spooner, for instance, is GOP chairman for Washburn County. Mrs. Gwen, Sincow, Superior, is chairman of the Douglas County GOP organization.

The same is true of our congressional district organizations. A woman must be either chairman or vice chairman. Mrs. Anita Becker, Port Washington, was chairman of the 6th Congressional District.

RESPONSIBILITY
Women have responsibility for statewide campaigns. Mrs. Ben Peckham, Madison is state chairman of our "Neighbor-to-Neighbor" fund raising program, which incidentally, began Sept. 21.

Our state vice chairman is Mrs. Norris Krohn, Oshkosh, and one of our two representatives to the National Republican Party in Washington, D.C., is Mrs. Byron Ising, Oshkosh.

Our party is the only one to elect women to state office. Right now we have two state assemblymen, Mrs. David Blanchard, Edgerton, and Mrs. Esther Doughty, Horicon.

Another example, Mrs. John E. Wise, in 1957, was appointed secretary of state upon the death of the incumbent — the only woman to occupy such a high office.

And, we all know that grand old politician, Mrs. Dena A. Smith, our state treasurer, who wins election after election, and holds the distinction of being the only woman elected to a constitutional office in our state's history.

We think the ladies are the best thing that ever happened to politics — the blondes, the brunettes, the redheads. Bless 'em all!

Veteran political manager George Greiley is the executive secretary of the state Republican Party organization.

Most Children Don't Like Being Kissed

BY SYDNEY J. HARRIS
My current crush is a 3-year-old charmer named Robin, and when I visited her house to play bridge with her parents the other evening, I swung her up in the air and tickled her ribs — but carefully omitted to kiss her or to ask her to kiss me.

Childhood is a period of expectancy, which is a pleasure — but it is also a period of "being expected to" — which can be a crushing weight.

We are expected to be so many things and to do so many things, mostly by our parents, but also by their friends. We are expected to kiss grownups who come to the house, when the kiss means nothing to us but is merely some sort of erotic symbol to them. I am convinced that this expectation sets up a great tension in most children.

All parents want to develop children with affectionate natures; but affection is learned through example, not through command. A child who is made to feel it is his dreary responsibility to kiss his relatives actually loses a source of spontaneous affection.

Robin and I can continue our grand romance on a much healthier, more joyous plane than mushing each other with our lips. I am giving up a small pleasure of vanity for the greater pleasure of being adored as Uncle Sydney, the Wonderful Elephant-Man.

The previous evening, a tough and knowing lecturer on child care had pointed out what my conscious mind had buried over the years: that small children love to be rough-housed, but generally dislike being kissed by or being made to kiss adults.

I had forgotten how distasteful it was to me when relatives or well-meaning friends would goody my cheek, or when I was dutifully forced to peck some synthetic "aunt" because she was nice enough to come over and visit.

The grownups I liked best were those who would pretend to be an elephant or a water sprite, and would carry me on their backs or toss me in the air so that my whole body enjoyed being played with and rumbled and teased.

These people were fun; they helped me discharge a lot of

Rusk Avoids Revelations During Talk

Chatty Presidents May be Reason for Secretary's Silence

By JAMES MARLOW

Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP) — Reti-cent Rusk, he could be called.

Dean Rusk, secretary of state since 1961, has had a couple of good reasons, including two talkative presidents, for not saying much, although this may be his natural condition.

Such talking as he does — speeches, testimony before Congress, news conferences occasionally — has the monotony of an echo. He avoids revelations and simply repeats the already well-known policies of the administration.

He does the same thing, hard as this may be to believe, at those so-called deep-deep background luncheons and dinners with certain Washington newsmen where the ground rules could keep him completely anonymous.

No Attribution
Nothing he says can be attributed to him, directly or indirectly, or to any official of government, even though left unnamed. It might seem that there, although he is pretty bald, he could let his hair down. He doesn't.

It would be no wonder if Rusk made up his mind, when John F. Kennedy named him secretary of state, to be just the opposite of John Foster Dulles who was secretary for most of Dwight D. Eisenhower's presidency.

Dulles talked almost incessantly, was allowed by Eisenhower to make major foreign policy pronouncements, and had such a flamboyant streak that his statements sometimes caused more controversy than they settled.

But what he did did deliberately: He used speeches, testimony before Congress and news conferences to get out his views on American foreign policy.

Ike's Blessings
He not only was the main spokesman for that policy in Eisenhower's day but much of the time seemed to be making it, with Eisenhower blessing him from the background.

The Eisenhower-Dulles relationship was a happy arrangement. As president, Eisenhower had to make himself heard from time to time but he never appeared to have a compulsion to be heard Dulles did.

Rusk happened to be secretary under two presidents — Kennedy and Lyndon B. Johnson — who took over the major pronouncements themselves, foreign and domestic, and relished being seen and heard.

Almost certainly neither of these two men could or would have tolerated Dulles.

By themselves, the example of Dulles and the talkative inclinations of Kennedy and Johnson would have been enough to induce Rusk to be satisfied with the quiet role of foreign policy's master technician, and not its hero.

Good Arrangement
It is understandable then that Rusk gets along well with Johnson who insists upon the center of the stage in his administration.

But, since Rusk is shy, intellectual and introspective he would probably by decision or instinct have been just as unobtrusive if there had been no Dulles before him or no Kennedy or Johnson to deal with.

He has made his role that of the conscientious public servant who is the No. 1 adviser on foreign policy but mostly out of sight behind the walls of the State Department and the White House.

But his reticence and comparative invisibility, no matter how valuable his contributions may turn out to be, have left him a rather negative figure in the public eye, hardly more than a name to many.

Rusk, an aloof man with a perspective on history and an apparent detachment from the passions and ambitions of his time, probably decided long ago he would depend more on history than on his contemporaries for any final appraisal.

Birch Issue Of No Concern In California

Voters Consider Reagan in Terms Of Negro and Taxes

By Rowland Evans and Robert Novak

LOS ANGELES — When Richard M. Nixon returned to his native California for a fundraising speech Sept. 16 during his nationwide barnstorming, there was public silence but private anger inside the camp of Ronald Reagan.

The reason for the irritation was Nixon's comment in responses to questions from newsmen, that he still believes Republican candidates should completely repudiate the John Birch Society. Inevitably, Nixon's remarks led to a new batch of newspaper stories and Democratic reminders that Reagan has made no such repudiation of the Birchers in his campaign for governor of California.

"That Nixon," one of Reagan's top strategists stormed. "We've just got where the Birch issue has disappeared, and Nixon has to come to California to dig it up again."

Dead Issue

The remarkable aspect of this incident is that with some six weeks to go in the campaign, the Birch issue indeed is dead. Nor, despite the momentary case of nerves at Reagan headquarters, was it really resurrected by the Nixon incident.

This fading of the extremist issue partially explains Reagan's lead of a few percentage points over Democratic Gov. Edmund G. (Pat) Brown. Moreover, it underlines a basic misconception that has plagued the Brown strategy from the beginning.

Democratic planners rightly judged as early as a year ago that Brown, shop-worn political merchandise after eight years in office, simply could not be refurbished. Rather, the road to victory lies in tearing down Reagan. And the best way to do that, it was reasoned, was to publicize his ties with the far right.

That process has been going for months under the general direction of Harry Lerner, a veteran public relations man from San Francisco and intimate of Pat Brown. Another research man who dug into Barry Goldwater's right wing ties in the 1964 California Republican Primary was assigned to probe Reagan's association. The result was speeches and statements documenting Reagan's undisputable links with the far right.

Other Problems

But the impact has been zero. Polls taken by both camps show Californians — particularly the 60 per cent of the state's population that lives in Los Angeles, Orange and San Diego counties in Southern California — couldn't care less about the John Birch Society or right-wing extremism issue. What bothers them much more is the Negro revolution and high taxes.

In truth, as much was obvious months ago, Brown's own polls showed that the voters did not regard Reagan as an extremist and were unconcerned about his attitude toward the Birchers. Reagan's lone vulnerability, according to these surveys, is his lack of experience and a lingering doubt among the state's voters whether a Hollywood actor should go to the governor's chair.

Yet, in the face of all this, the Democratic attempt to milk the extremist issue continues — spurred by Nixon's unwitting assistance. For instance, against the better judgment of some Brown strategists, a research from Harry Lerner that Reagan once signed a restrictive racial covenant on his house was released. Whatever small impact it may have had was erased that Brown's own house had a similar covenant.

Reagan Too Far Right?

What is happening here is the old political problem of campaign strategists saying what their supporters want to hear rather than what might win votes. For among Brown's backers and particularly among his prominent Jewish supporters, there is a genuine fear of Reagan in Sacramento as a dangerously sharp turn to the right in American politics. But the Jewish and Negro votes, who might most be affected by the extremist issue, are in Brown's pocket anyway.

The votes that Brown must win are the lower income and lower middle income white and Mexican Democrats in the Los Angeles area who gave Mayor Sam Yorty his anti-Negro blacklash vote against Brown in last June's primary. Spencer-Roberts & Associates, the political management firm running the Reagan campaign, has been scouring these precincts in search of Reagan supporters.

Conceivably, these key voters might turn against Reagan if they are convinced he is an inexperienced incompetent. But for them, the extremism issue doesn't exist.

Price Index Up Sharply In Milwaukee

MILWAUKEE (AP)—The Labor Department says higher prices for bread and dairy products, used cars and gasoline encouraged an increase in the Milwaukee area's consumer price index between May and August.

Milwaukee and Waukesha counties were included in an index used by the department in studies of the cost of living. Transportation costs increased 2.5 per cent during the three-month period, the department said the index showed. Food was up 2.4 per cent, apparel and personal upkeep were up one per cent, housing up a half per cent, and health and recreation up less than a third of one per cent.

In special groups, food consumed in the home was up 2.7 per cent. The department cited increases in white and whole wheat bread, milk, ice cream, butter, apples and eggs.

Food was up 6 per cent over last year's figures. Health and recreation were up 3 per cent, transportation 2 per cent, and apparel 1.7 per cent. The housing index decreased one fifth of one per cent.

GE Employees Might Reject Contract Offer

NEW YORK (AP)—A sampling of voting by General Electric Co. employees across the country showed today a trend toward rejection of the firm's proposed new contract to replace one expiring at midnight Oct. 2.

Balloting began Sunday and will continue through the week. At some plants, only the rejection was announced by union leaders, without giving vote totals.

At plants where vote totals were supplied, the balloting generally was heavily in favor of rejecting GE's latest offer for a 38-month pact.

In Lynn, Mass., about 2,000 members of the AFL-CIO International Union of Electrical Workers — largest of some 100 unions bargaining with GE — rejected the proposed pact.

Business agent Hugh McManus said: "An overwhelming majority of the membership" (in Lynn and Everett, Mass., plants) expressed the opinion that the proposals were peanuts and not enough, that the 38-month contract proposal was out of the question."

Food Flown to Flooded Camp In Viet Nam

SAIGON (AP)—Two U.S. Air Force helicopter crews delivered more than 10,000 pounds of food for civilians and U.S. military forces near the flooded Tuong Thoy Special Forces camp 125 miles southwest of Saigon Sunday it was announced Monday.

One of the men flying in the two helicopters was 1st Lt. James McRiddle, of La Crosse, Wis.

Richard Burdett, of Ness City, Kan., said the camp had about six feet of water running through it when the supply choppers arrived.

The current was too swift for the amphibious helicopters to attempt a landing, so they flew to an Long air strip about 10 miles away.

Air Force and Special Forces men unloaded the supplies as other Americans and Vietnamese, from the Thung Thoy camp, came by sampan to return the food to flood victims stranded on high ground by the swirling Mekong River.

Son Succeeds Chairman of S. C. Johnson

RACINE (AP)—H. F. Johnson stepped down Monday as chairman of S. C. Johnson & Son, Inc., and his son, Samuel C. Johnson, was elected president and chief executive officer of the wax manufacturing firm.

The elder Johnson was named by shareholders and directors to the new position of honorary chairman and H. M. Packard moved up from president to chairman. Johnson served as chairman since 1958 following 30 years as president.

As honorary chairman, Johnson will continue to counsel and advise the corporation. He will serve on the board of directors and its executive committee.

Packard, the first person outside the Johnson family to head the 80-year-old firm, was elected president in 1958. He joined the company in 1946 as treasurer and became executive vice president and a director in 1955.

S. C. Johnson has been executive vice president since 1963. He is a great grandson of the founder and joined the firm in 1954 after graduation from Harvard Business School.

Kaukauna Man to be Convention Chairman; Testimonial Banquet Planned for Official

About 150 state chiropractors are expected to attend the annual convention of the Wisconsin Chiropractic Association Thursday through Saturday at the Conway Hotel in Appleton.

R. E. Breitenbach, D. C., Kaukauna, will serve as convention chairman and J. W. Barnstable, D. C., Appleton, president of the state organization, will preside over business sessions Thursday.

A testimonial banquet Thursday night will honor Warren H. Resch, assistant attorney general of Wisconsin, for his many years as counselor to the State Board of Examiners in Chiropractic. Resch will retire from his state post in the near future.

Education sessions will open Friday morning with the theme: "The Vertebral Subluxation and Its Role in Disease Process." Appleton Mayor George Buckley will open the day's agenda with a welcoming message.

Speakers for the day include R. Grant Wilson, D. C., faculty member of the diagnostic department of Palmer College of Chiropractic. Topic of his talk will be "The Neurological Examination of the Cranial Nerves and Its Relation to the Whiplash Injury."

"X-Ray Interpretation: Fundamentals of the X-ray Interpretation of the Pelvis" will be the topic of a talk by Douglas B. Cox, D. C., X-ray analysis technique instructor at Palmer College.

An informal buffet will be Friday evening with membership awards to be made by M. O. Nelson, D. C., Kewaunee, and recruitment awards by C. M. Witte, D. C., Platteville. Entertainment will be provided by "Bob and Reggie," a ventriloquist act.

Educational sessions Saturday morning will be conducted by Cox. Clifford Titus, D. C., Tucson, Ariz., will speak on "The Role of the Chiropractor in the Modern Era" at the afternoon session. Election of officers will follow.

Gamble to Grant 28 Scholarships

Twenty-eight B. C. Gamble scholarship awards will be presented at the end of the current school year, Bertin C. Gamble, board chairman of Gamble-Skogmo, Inc., which operates the Gamble store at Valley Fair, announced today.

This year's awards will bring the total number of winners to 240, sharing over $84,000 in awards since the plan began in 1958-59. The current scholarships, each worth $350, will go to 28 high school seniors graduating next June. Winners may use the funds for any course of study at any accredited college or university.

All who qualify for the awards must demonstrate special ability in salesmanship, either through high school programs or part-time jobs plus acceptable scholastic aptitude during their senior year.

During an October sales contest stores in 23 states will compete for the right to award one of the 28 scholarships. The highest percentage of sales increase over their October quotas determines the winners, explained Gary Thorson, local Gamble store manager.

Selection of the seniors winning each scholarship will be made by a school faculty committee. Families of Gamble-Skogmo, its subsidiaries, suppliers or advertising agency are not eligible.

Vac-Pac Coffee:

fine as the best

costs you less

A good cup of coffee—like a successful marriage—is a blend. In the case of Kroger's Vac-Pac Coffee, a blend of seven great coffees.

Light, mellow Brazilians; rich, full-bodied Colombians, and choice Central American coffees. Some give brightness to the blend, others deep, satisfying flavor. And the combination is constantly adjusted to correct for subtle variances in natural aroma and body. So you get the same good taste time after time after time.

Kroger coffee-masters roast these plump vintage beans just 7 minutes; cool, grind and vacuum-pack them in minutes. From raw beans-in-the-bag to sealed canister, they're untouched by human hands.

Kroger coffee has one other distinction: it's always the freshest in the store. It goes directly from our roasters to the store-shelves every week. So you get more of the natural fragrance, more of the roaster-fresh taste in every cup you brew. Nothing could be more satisfying! That, Kroger guarantees.

stitution and restore civilian rule to the war-torn nation. Premier Nguyen Cao Ky told the opening session that South Viet Nam is entering "an era of democracy, peace and prosperity" but that the nation still faces "many trials and difficulties."

Best Weapons
The chief of state, Gen. Nguyen Van Thieu, urged the assembly to "respond to the confidence of the people who believe democracy is the best weapon to win over communism."

The 117-member assembly, elected Sept. 11, is supposed to draft a new constitution in the next six months, paving the way for elections some time next year. South Viet Nam has been without a constitution since the overthrow of President Ngo Dinh Diem in November 1963.

In the ground fighting in South Viet Nam, the U.S. command reported scattered activity in the coastal area and near the demilitarized zone.

Helen Kane, 20s Singer, Dies at 62

NEW YORK (AP) — Helen Kane, whose gay little girl's voice made the phrase "boop-boop-a-doop" a part of the legend of the Roaring 20s, died Monday at 62 after a 10-year battle with cancer.

She succumbed at her home in Jackson Heights, Queens, only hours after watching a television revival of "Three Little Words," a movie in which she sang "I want to be loved by you" — her biggest hit.

Dan Healy, her husband, said, "She got a great kick out of hearing her voice coming out loud and clear."

The "boop-boop-a-doop" refrain that Miss Kane made a part of most of her songs had its birth in 1928 when she was appearing at New York's Paramount Theater. She inserted the line at a rehearsal and it was a hit as soon as the public heard it.

Dye to be Used In Study of River Pollution

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (AP) — Fluorescent red dye to study water pollution will be injected next week at 10 points along an 800-mile section of the Missouri River.

"This study could give us the reason for a large fish kill in the Missouri River above Kansas City in 1964," said Anthony Homyk, hydrologist-engineer with the U.S. Geological Survey in Rolla, Mo. Homyk is the project coordinator.

State agencies in Missouri, Kansas, Iowa, Nebraska and South Dakota, as well as the U.S. Geological Survey, Weather Bureau and Corps of Engineers are taking part in the experiment.

Homyk said the purpose of the red dye will be to determine how long it takes for pollutants to dilute and the time-of-travel of contaminants down the river. Homyk said that as far as he knew this would be the first time that a red dye river study had ever been attempted "on this large a scale."

Powell Faces Trial For Criminal Contempt

NEW YORK (AP) — Rep. Adam Clayton Powell, D-N.Y., stripped last week of many of his powers as a House committee chairman, now faces trial on criminal contempt charges growing out of a libel judgment he lost more than three years ago.

The Appellate Division of State Supreme Court ruled Monday that the Harlem congressman must stand trial for evading court orders in connection with the defamation of character action.

An attorney for Powell said he would attempt to block the ruling and head off the trial scheduled for Wednesday.

State Constitutional Changes Needed for County Rule

County, he said, that the offices of county treasurer, clerk, sheriff, register of deeds and clerk of court be abolished and the department functions be consolidated under the Civil Service system.

All three of the "straight jacket provisions" of the state constitution would have to be repealed before "meaningful home rule" would be possible, supervisors were told.

16 Amendments
"Under the complex and lengthy amending process of our state constitution, this would require...at least 16 separate amendments," Doyno said.

Through a constitutional convention, he said, the changes could be effected all at once.

"Our urgent needs require and the time is right for a state constitutional convention," said Doyno. He explained that nearly every state outside of New England—except Wisconsin—has held at least one constitutional convention in the last 117 years.

The Milwaukee County executive cited the failure of numerous efforts to obtain constitutional revision by the "piecemeal approach" as emphasis of the need for such a convention.

Two Methods
Home rule, as outlined by Doyno, could be delegated to counties in one of two ways: The state could list the powers and duties granted to the boards or it could allow county boards powers to adopt local ordinances.

A three-man panel of county board chairmen, presented a mixed reaction to Doyno's proposal.

Agreement was expressed by Myron Lott, Brown County Board Chairman, who called for a "constitutional remodeling that would remove the counties from the state shelter and let them stand alone."

Walter R. Schmidt of Sheboygan County and John R. Lynch, Douglas County Board Chairman, urged caution in seeking changes in the state constitution.

Lynch said he believes there is such a thing as moving too fast.

"Give the changes a lot of serious thought," he advised.

Death Toll 5 In Barge Blast

Gasoline Carrier Ripped Open in San Francisco Bay

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A gasoline barge, its hull ripped when it went aground in San Francisco Bay, exploded today, killing two men and leaving three others missing and presumed dead.

Another four men were injured, one critically, when the Standard Oil Co. barge No. 18 went aground near San Francisco Pier 64, while en route from Richmond on the other side of the bay.

The Police Department said Standard Oil tug No. 4 inexplicably lost control of the barge near Pier 62 while nearing its destination during early morning darkness.

Gasoline Spills
Gasoline from a ruptured tank on the barge spilled over bay waters. A deck hand victim said an unexplained flame from the barge touched off the blast.

The Standard Oil employee on the barge and three on the tug all were either dead, missing or injured.

Also missing were two Coast Guardsmen from a patrol boat that was standing by. The patrol boat was burned to the water line and the barge was completely wrecked.

Although ruined, the barge was afire hours later and the Fire Department estimated it contained enough fuel to burn 24 hours.

situations and programs of the South Vietnamese government, together with a full review of the prospects of a peaceful settlement of the conflict."

Secretary of State Dean Rusk will accompany Johnson, Moyers said. Other officials also will go along, he said, but he did not know whether they will include Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara.

Marcos and Johnson went into the prospects for a Manila conference when the Philippine president was here about two weeks ago. But Moyers said that over a long period of time before that, proposals for such a conference had been put forward by a number of Asian leaders. Rusk, he said, went into the matter in considerable detail at a meeting of the South Asia Treaty Organization foreign secretaries in Canberra, Australia, at the end of June.

Ky Welcomes Prospect
Moyers added that he has heard through official channels that the South Vietnamese chief of state, Nguyen Cao Ky, warmly welcomes prospects of the Manila meeting.

The governments of South Viet Nam, South Korea and Thailand had agreed to plans for this conference, Marcos said in a speech at the University of Hawaii's East-West Center. Later, Prime Ministers Harold Holt of Australia and Keith J. Holyoake of New Zealand agreed.

Marcos is in Honolulu on the last stop of a state visit to the United States.

The Manila meeting would come exactly three weeks prior to the congressional elections in the United States. There has been speculation in Washington political circles that the President might make some dramatic move regarding the Viet Nam situation just before the elections.

Schedule Clear
Only Monday, the White House said in response to queries that Johnson's schedule was clear of any political events. White House press secretary Bill D. Moyers said Johnson had hundreds of invitations for appearances and speeches but none had been accepted.

3 Planes Destroyed, 4 Saved in Hangar Fire at Stevens Point

STEVENS POINT (AP) — The manager of Stevens Point Municipal Airport pushed four airplanes to safety Monday as flames destroyed a hangar.

Kenneth Barlow, who suffered slight burns, said he was unable to rescue three other craft which were under repair in the hangar.

Fire Chief Victor Soik estimated damage to the frame hangar at $30,000. Barlow, who said fire had spread from a trash burner outside the building, estimated $4,000 in tools and other equipment also was lost.

Sheinwold Comfortable Lead Not The Best

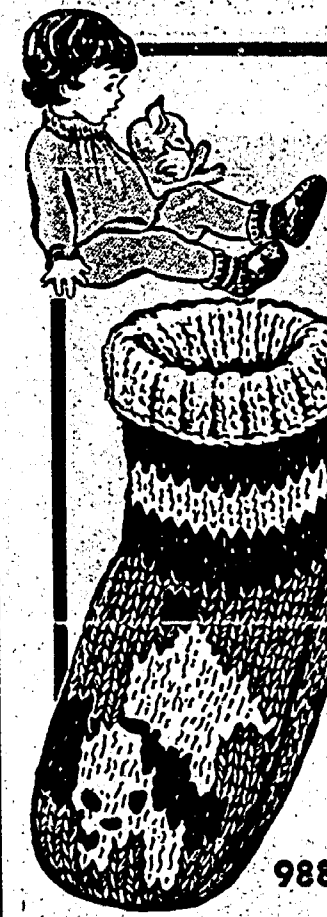

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD
Most bridge players have the mistaken notion that the best opening lead is from a suit headed by A-K-Q, K-Q-J or Q-J-10. These are comfortable opening leads, but comfort and effectiveness don't always go together. West made a comfortable spade lead and woke up too late. Declarer won with dummy's king of spades and returned a club to his king.

West might have recovered if he had played his low club without seeming to think. Actually, he stewed for several seconds and then refused the club trick.
South didn't have to be hit over the head to work out the meaning of West's hesitation. Declarer led a low club, and West won with the jack.
West shifted to a trump, but it was too late. East took the ace and returned a trump. South won and ruffed a club in dummy setting up the rest of his suit.
Now South got to his hand with a spade to draw the last trump, after which he could claim the rest of the trumps and clubs. Four hearts, bid and made.
Revealing Bidding
West had heard North express a decided preference for hearts over clubs. Bidding of this kind usually indicates trump length with a side singleton or doubleton. The best defense, usually, is to lead trumps immediately to reduce dummy's ruffing power.

West should lead a trump, and this opening lead would defeat the contract. East takes the ace of hearts and returns a heart. When West gets in with the ace of clubs he leads a third heart, thus taking the last trump out of dummy before South can ruff a club.
South must give up two club tricks in addition to the two red aces, and West scores 100 points instead of losing a 700-point rubber.
Daily Question
Partner opens with 1 NT (16 to 18 points), and the next player passes. You hold: S K 5 2, H Q 9 5, D K Q 8 3 2, S 8 4. What do you say?
Answer: Bid 3 NT. The combined count (with your 10 points) must be 26 or 28 points, which should be enough for game in notrump—but is unlikely to be enough for game in diamonds.

News Chairmen, Club Presidents Invited to 2nd Post-Crescent Coffee

With fall club meetings beginning, the Post-Crescent Women's Department has again planned a coffee and program for club presidents and news chairmen.

This year's event will take place at 9:30 a.m. Oct. 6 at the Conway Hotel.

The coffee hour and program were initiated last year to give the Women's Dept. and those who report news of interest to women a chance to talk over better methods of communication. Newspaper policies and rules and club aims and reporting will also be discussed.

Invitations have been extended to all women's organization presidents and news chairmen. Because an accurate and complete list of groups is difficult to keep, all those who did not receive invitations but whose news is published in the women's pages are also cordially asked to attend.

In order to let the Conway know how many to expect, clubs sending representatives have been asked to call The Post-Crescent, extension 70, between 9:30 a.m. and noon this week.

tion's "Curl' Up and Read Column," is Karen Hanson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. S. R. Hanson, 1613 W. Eighth St. A June graduate of Appleton High School, Miss Hanson is now a freshman at the University of Wisconsin Fox Valley Campus. She plans on a journalism major, and some day hopes to do freelance writing.

Choosing Books Miss Hanson first read about the magazine's guest author column last winter. In March she submitted six reviews, of which five were selected for the October publication.

"I could choose any books I wanted to review," she said, explaining that her personal selection was based on books that impressed her and were unusual. "I tried to choose a variety of books which others might be interested in and also want to read," Miss Hanson said.

She recommended the following books to the nation's reading teen-agers: "Heaven's My Destination" by Thornton Wilder; "The Love Guy" by Frederick Darling; "Take-Heed of Loving Me" by Elizabeth Gray Viking, a novel based on the early life of poet John Donne; "Good Lord, You're Upside Down" by Clair Huffaker, and "Everything That Rises Must Converge" by Flannery O'Connor, a collection of short stories.

Won Writing Award Three years ago, Miss Hanson won second place in an essay contest sponsored by the State Historical Society for an article on Clement Vallindigham entitled, "The Northern Rebel."

She had several pieces published in the Appleton High School literary magazine, "Patterns of Stardust." Two years ago she won first place for a book review in the same publication.

The Appleton High School graduate was a member of Quill and Scroll, the French Club, the orchestra and newspaper, "The Talisman." At the Fox Valley Campus she contributes to "The Valley Voice," campus newspaper, and is a member of the Fox Valley Symphony Orchestra.

Gossip Blooms During Evening at White House

By FRANCES LEWINE
WASHINGTON (AP)—A lot of side business and interesting gossip goes on at a White House state dinner.

For instance, at Monday night's party given by President Johnson for Chancellor Ludwig Erhard of West Germany:

—Lynda Johnson wore a gold and diamond ring on the third finger of her left hand, but said she's not engaged to her escort of late, George Hamilton. The ring, she said, was given to her by a spinster Aunt Effie Patillo on her mother's side.

—May Wait
—Lynda hasn't decided on a job yet either. Learning her father intends to travel to Manila next month, she said she may go along with him and let a job decision wait.

But, she approached Civil Service Commission Chairman John W. Macy Jr., her father's chief talent scout, and told him jokingly "I still don't have a job."

—Instead of listening with about 180 other guests to the half-hour of chamber music that followed the dinner, four top-level officials spent the time conferring. Sitting around an empty table were Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara, Undersecretary of State George W. Ball, John J. McCloy, former high commissioner in Germany and now chairman of the Advisory Committee on the U.S. Arms Control and Disarmament Agency, and Robert R. Bowie, a counselor at the State Department.

Ball wouldn't say what was discussed but told a reporter it was "serious business."

Long Ago
—The featured violinist, William Kroll, confided to White House aides that he hadn't been in the White House since he performed there as a child prodigy before President Calvin Coolidge.

—Former actress Arlene Dahl, who now writes a beauty advice column, said she and others at her table exchanged autographs on their dinner menus. Among the signatures she took away—Lynda Johnson and George Hamilton, Gemini astronaut Lt. Cmdr. Richard F. Gordon Jr., the wife of astronaut Cmdr. Charles Conrad Jr., and architect Edward Durrell Stone.

"I found I signed my own card too, isn't that ridiculous," she said later.

Erhard left right after the concert at 11:45 p.m., an early departure as White House parties go lately, and everything wound up by 12:30 a.m.

All Last Week Lawrence University freshmen got acquainted with Appleton, the university and each other. From formal registration to tours of campus buildings and music recitals, the newcomers were kept busy. Saturday evening, with most upperclassmen back for the fall year, there was an

A Lovelier You

By Mary Sue Miller

Dry Lips Blister Lipstick

A Lovely writes. In the last few years my lips have developed deep grooves and almost always feel chapped. My lipstick separates and looks like so many blisters soon after application. I'm an old hand at using lipstick, but too young to have dry, lined lips I must be doing something wrong!

The Answer: The best solution combines a corrective treatment for the lip complexion and a lipstick application with maximum hold. This is the method:

1. Start with cleansed, absolutely dry lips. 2. Apply a film of colorless, medicated lip gloss. Let it set a few moments and then blot with a cleansing tissue or a lintless, linen-finished square. 3. Brush on the thinnest coat possible of hypoallergenic lipstick. Be sure the outline and fill-in are perfect. No touch-ups allowed. Wait until the color develops, fully, and then lightly blot. 4. Apply a second film of gloss and blot at once.

Perform exactly as instructed and the luminous color, so achieved, will look as though it belongs to you — comes from within! It will not blister unless that is, you make a habit of wetting your lips. That practice is a common cause of flaking lipstick and lips, too.

Given half a chance, the treatment factors in the lipsticks used here help to restore the lip complexion. For more of the same, apply your lip gloss to cleansed cleansed lips at bedtime.

Whatever your skin problems, to find a solution send for my booklet, "A Lovelier Complexion." Detailed advice contained includes the correct care for dry, oily, combination and normal skin types; proper application methods; treatments for blackheads, enlarged pores, circles, wrinkles, crepiness, etc. For your copy, write Mary Sue Miller in care of this newspaper, enclosing a large, self-addressed,

Detergent Aids in Protecting Plants

The U.S. Department of Agriculture has come up with a handy gardening tip regarding certain kinds of plants which are difficult to wet adequately with an insecticide spray.

USDA entomologists advise adding ½ teaspoon of household detergent per gallon of spray or dip. This gives the mixture more wetting power, so the insecticide will spread into even hard-to-get-at plant areas.

California Home of Newlyweds

Miss Marilyn Marie Rupiper and Christopher R. Mullen exchanged wedding vows at 3 p.m. Saturday, St. Michael Catholic Church, Suring, was the setting for the ceremony. The Rev. Dismas Vowels, O.F.M. Cap., officiated.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Rupiper, Suring. Parents of the bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. Christopher J. Mullen, 4816 W. Spencer St.

Mrs. Robert Rupiper, Coleman, a sister-in-law of the bride, was chosen as matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Miss Frances Beauchamp and Miss Carol Rupiper. Miss JoAnn Rupiper served as flower girl.

Attending the bridegroom as best man was his brother, Patrick Mullen. Also assisting the bridegroom were James Julka and Dennis Bakos. Ring bearer was Timothy Mullen.

The couple received guests at Round Roof Club, Kelly Lake. After a western wedding trip Mr. and Mrs. Mullen will reside in San Diego.

The bride, a graduate from St. Norbert College, West De Pere, has been employed as a teacher at Kaukauna Public Schools. Her husband, also a graduate of St. Norbert College, is a navy ensign.

Brides Bemoan House Chores; Find Husbands Hard-to-Please

There are some good solid adjustments. Two of the girls, husband doesn't nag too much about the lack of culinary skill. Ann and Flora, never had any experience, but both ate well at home.

Ann's husband douses everything with catsup, and there is constant bickering about it. "There's no fun in making a delicious dish for someone to pour catsup over before it is tasted," she says.

Flora can't get in the swing of the kitchen, but she tries. She's progressed from frozen dinner to meat, vegetable and potato dish — Beef Stroganoff. Her husband doesn't nag too much about the lack of culinary skill.

Betty's husband was used to good cooking and takes pies and biscuits in stride. He always compliments her, but there are sure to be such remarks as "did you put paprika in the chicken batter?" or "I like salmon croquettes with pickles mixed in." She refuses to put a hard-boiled egg in the center of the meat loaf.

No Happy Medium The less said about coffee-making the better, the girls say. All three strike out on the morning brew. The girls like coffee strong, the men like it weak. There doesn't seem to be a happy medium.

Postpone Work When it comes to chores, husbands are procrastinators. Garbage is removed in self defense by the girls. Husbands postpone calling plumbers, electricians and other workmen. Ann's dishwasher propeller has been broken for weeks and her husband threatens to install a new one, but so far, "no action." Par for the course, Betty and Flora agree.

There should be a law that every man must wash his own socks," says Flora. "Jack complains that I leave too much soap in the socks, makes his feet itch."

Betty's husband is a sock gripper, too. His lightweight wool socks shrink and he complains that she doesn't match them evenly so it seems "as though one of his legs is shorter than the other," he's always telling her.

Ann tosses her husband's wash-and-wear socks in the washing machine, but has a fade problem. He insists she puts them in with clothes to be bleached.

Husband Advises Shirts are another nuisance, the girls say. All began married life at the ironing board "to save money."

Flora's husband complains about how she irons the collars, Betty's husband said the collars were dirtier after she washed them than before, and showed her how to loosen dirt with soap and a brush before washing the shirts. Her first shirt took more than an hour to iron but now she can iron a shirt in 10 minutes or less, she says.

Need Compliments All three girls have suggested sending shirts to the laundry. One husband protests he has too few for the arrangement; another says they starch the collars, no matter what you say. Cooking is one of the biggest

Use Instructions On Clothing Label

Labels are as important as the garment you buy. Since each garment must by law have a label giving fiber content it's a good idea to keep it handy. Information on fiber content is especially useful at laundry and dry cleaning time.

Keeping garment labels for a family is rather a problem. But since labels give clues for care of the garment it's important that they're kept in some convenient way.

Use a peg board in the laundry area for a label storer. Mark a section off for Mother, Father, Susie and other family members. On a peg in Susie's section hang the tags from her garments. You may want a peg for her sweaters, another for and Mrs. William Lemke Jr., route 1, Shawano.

skirts and others for other garments.

Do write on each tag some description of the sweater so you know it is the short sleeved yellow one. A quick glance at the tag will show that the sweater is 100 per cent Orlon acrylic.

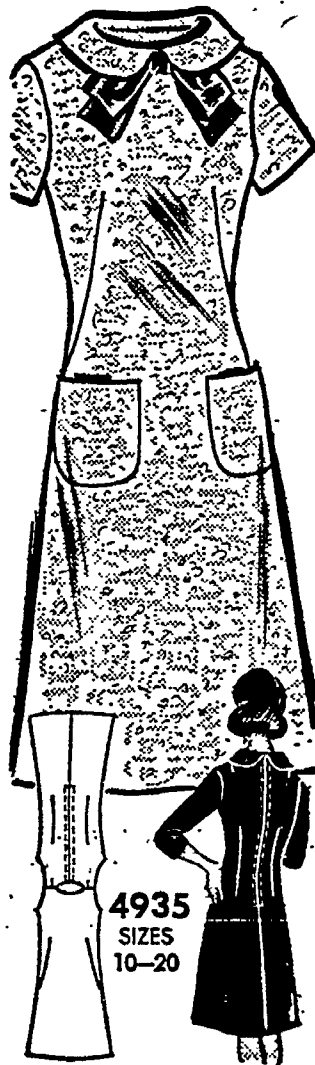

The tag may also offer some laundering suggestions such as "machine wash and dry." Or it may give ironing suggestions; or it may tell about some of the qualities of the garment.

When a peg board isn't available use a recipe file. Use a card for each skirt, blouse, shirt, slacks or dress. File each behind a master card labeled with the person's name. Make cards for only those garments that get treatment other than straight washing in hot water.

Attach the label to the file card. You may want to list price of the garment, date purchased, where bought, size or other comments to help when shopping for a replacement.

When costumes are coordinated fiber information may appear on one label. It may say, "Sweater of 100 per cent Orlon acrylic" and "Skirt of 55 per cent Orlon acrylic and 45 per cent wool." Copy off the information if you need it filed in two places.

Buckley Vetoes Proposed Trip By City Official

Committee Okayed Visit to Home for Unwed Mothers

Exercising his veto power for the third time in less than six months, Mayor George Buckley today ruled out a trip planned by the welfare director to inspect a home for young unwed mothers at Des Moines, Iowa.

The Appleton Council, acting on the recommendation of the welfare-ordinance committee, authorized Director Merten Ehrlicke to go to Des Moines Oct. 21. The action was taken last Wednesday.

Buckley, who previously vetoed an out-of-state trip to Chicago by Ehrlicke but was overridden by the council, said his action was not personal and praised the work the welfare director has performed for the city.

However, the mayor indicated he could not see how taxpayers' money could be expended at this time when the council has not even indicated an intent to build a home for unwed mothers.

Heard Director
The home at Des Moines came to light in a report Ehrlicke made to the welfare-ordinance committee after returning from his Chicago trip where he heard the home director speak and tell of the need for similar program throughout the country.

At the time, Ehrlicke said Appleton should consider a home for young unwed mothers, claiming a problem existed here. However, he indicated such a project would need community awareness and support.

In his veto message, which will be before the council next Wednesday night, Buckley said the veto was specifically aimed at the council action which asked that, "... The city welfare director be authorized to attend at city expense a coordinating committee meeting at the Iowa Children's Home Society at Des Moines, Iowa on Oct. 21, 1966."

Buckley said reasons for his action were that:
—Such a trip at this time would be premature because the council has not indicated it would be interested in authorizing the building of a home for unwed mothers, or authorizing any such program.

—Written materials are available, and if Ehrlicke would obtain them it would obviate the trip.
—It was the duty of his office and the council to "guard against any unnecessary expenditures of the taxpayers' money, though the amount may be small."

A two-thirds vote (16) of the council membership is required to override an executive veto.

WFT, Board Resolve Convention Problems

Official Delegates to Attend Without Pay; Request Parley Inclusion on 1967 Calendar

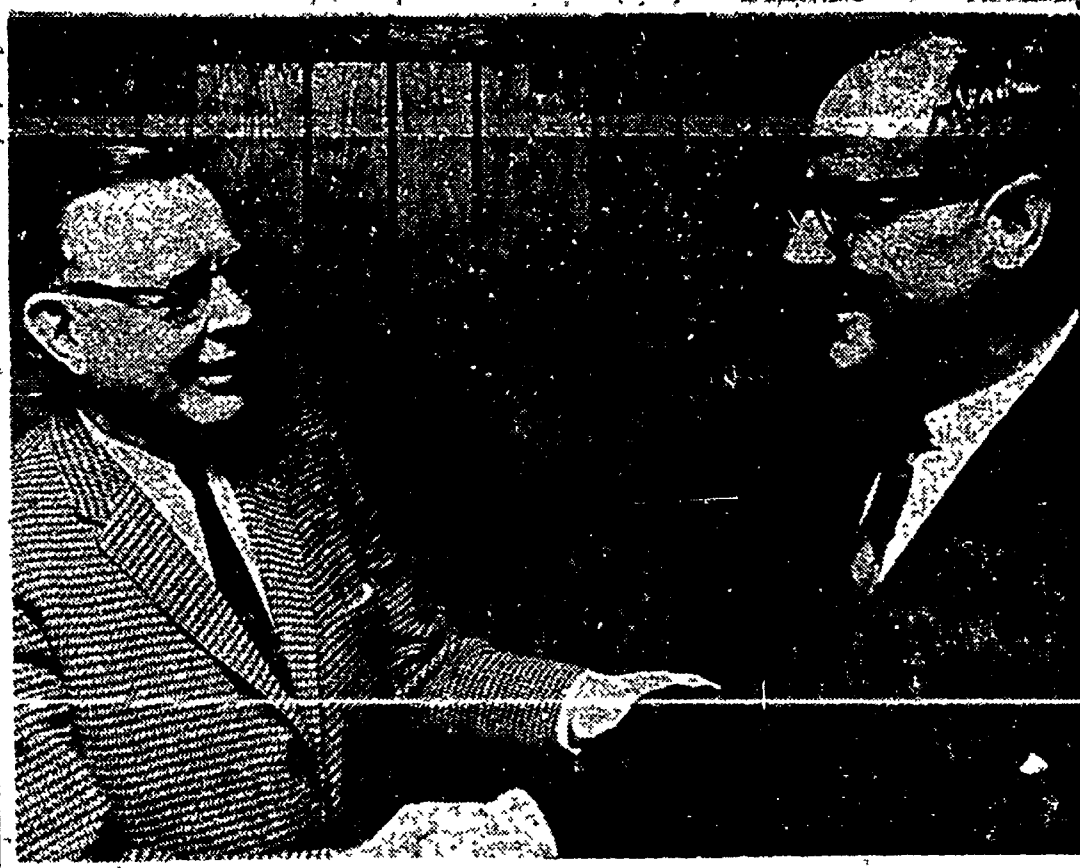

Ten members of the Appleton Teachers Union (ATU) will be allowed to attend the Wisconsin Federation of Teachers (WFT) convention as delegates without pay, providing adequate substitute teachers can be found. The board of education ruled on the convention Monday.

At first the ATU requested that all members be allowed to attend but since its Aug. 26 request, a decision had been made to compromise with the board.

In a letter to the board, Richard DeBroux, ATU president, had written, "Because of the changes in dates of the WFT convention and the difficulty in changing the calendar at this time, the ATU proposes that:

—All officers and delegates of ATU be allowed to attend the convention with no reduction in pay.

—Members of ATU will not have to be at school on the Wisconsin Educational Association convention dates (Nov. 5

Counties Need Aid Experts, Administrators, Official Says

Claims Government Too Complex For Part-Time Supervisors

BY BILL KNUTSON
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

LA CROSSE — Two major gaps in Wisconsin county government could be filled with the hiring of county administrators and federal aid coordinators, officials meeting here were told Monday afternoon.

Bernard Hillenbrand, director of the National Association of Counties, in an address at the Wisconsin County Boards Association convention, said the need for such positions exists in large and small counties, not only in Wisconsin, but nationally.

Hillenbrand, of Montgomery County, Md., maintained that county government today is too complex to be administered by "part-time supervisors." The job is getting "too tough" for county supervisors, Hillenbrand stated.

He called for a "single individual to personify the needs of the county." That individual, he said, should be a county executive, either appointed or elected and part or full-time, depending on the size of the county.

Broad Powers

The executive, who Hillenbrand said should have a professional administrative assistant, would possess broad powers to include some control over budgets and appointing of key department heads within the county.

"The job should be like that of a county governor," he explained.

Hillenbrand, in stressing the need for a county executive or administrator, told officials here, "we couldn't possibly run the state as we've been running the counties. It's a miracle that some counties in the United States can be made to operate at all."

He charged that the citizen no longer understands what county government is, how it is run or who runs it.

The county board, while it should be a "legislator," is not doing an effective job of legislating because it spends too much time in an administrative capacity, Hillenbrand remarked.

Outagamie's Position

His proposal drew support from Sylvester Esler, Outagamie County Board chairman, who said his county four years ago created what developed into

Air Wisconsin Stockholders Elect Officers

Report Reveals Operations 'In Black' Started in April

All officers of Air Wisconsin, Inc., were re-elected at the firm's final annual stockholders meeting Monday.

Re-named were Karl P. Baldwin, president; John Conway, vice president; Gus A. Zuehlke, treasurer; Richard Stack, secretary; and William H. Pifer, chairman of the board.

Named as directors for the coming year were Baldwin, Conway, Pifer, Zuehlke, Stack, F. John Barlow, James R. Gustman, Herbert C. Holtz, Raymond N. LeVee, Richard W. Mahony Sr., Allen C. Mulder, Bruce R. Purdy, Max A. Sagunsky and Erwin Sauerlich.

Air Wisconsin officials, in reviewing progress of the Appleton-based Fox Valley to Chicago commuter line, pointed out that the number of flights has grown from two to eight daily since the airline began operations Aug. 23, 1965, and the number of passengers has tripled.

Beginning in April 1966, the airline began "operating in the black," it was noted.

Officials Monday reviewed operations of the DH600 jet prop airplane which Air Wisconsin will put into service next month. Use of the new airplane will increase available passenger space by 30 seats per day, it was pointed out.

At Midwest Conference

Officials Learn Building Advances

Advances being made in metal and concrete building construction were hammered home today to delegates to the Midwest Conference of Building Officials here.

Municipal building inspectors and others also heard something they already knew — it's a tremendous job keeping up with all the construction underway.

Speakers heading the morning program included Al Nystrom, metal building expert for Pruden Products Co., Evansville, Wis.; Carl Roth, engineer with Portland Cement Co.; and Don Lockridge, regional manager, American Plywood Products Association.

The annual dinner will be at 6:30 p.m. in the Season's Room at the Conway Hotel.

Technical Discussions

Most of today's discussions bordered on the technical with speakers pointing out the qualities of their respective building products as rated by the American Society of Testing Materials (ASTM).

Building inspectors were reminded they are the men who regulate residential and non-residential construction according to state and municipal codes.

Nystrom said steel and metal fabricating companies were spending millions of dollars on research and design to improve all phases of building construction.

Describing how steel structures fit into the building picture, Nystrom said metal products are used both on the interior and exterior of new, modern buildings.

He said construction of large steel buildings should take place in outlying areas, advising that while such construction is non-combustible, it is not fire rated.

Can Be Fire Proof

However, Nystrom said fabricated steel products can be made fireproof, but cited the high cost of doing so through a spray method.

Andrew A. Derga, 73, Retired Paper Firm Employee, Dies at Home

Andrew A. Derga, 73, 220 E. Atlantic St., Appleton, died Monday night at his home after a short illness. The Appleton Fire Department rescue squad was called to Derga's home a short time before he died.

Derga was born in Fort Howard, and was employed at the Fox River Paper Corp., Appleton, before his retirement in 1957.

The body was released to the Wichmann Funeral Home.

He indicated it was advisable to have sprinkler systems in 200,000 and 300,000 square foot steel buildings.

Nystrom also told the conference some of the country's most modern buildings, large and small, are made of steel products which are economical and call for low maintenance.

Concrete masonry construction was described as "new and exciting" by Roth, who said it is used for exterior and interior purposes. He said walls of concrete are being used aesthetically in modern buildings of all sizes.

"Nothing is more permanent than change," Roth said, "and that is the way we feel about concrete masonry construction which has come into its own."

Masonry Benefits

Roth elaborated on the benefits of masonry and concrete construction, below and above ground. He also told of new methods which prevent wall cracking.

This afternoon Charles M. Gray, representing the Insulation Board Institute, was the leadoff speaker, discussing, "The Big Noise About the Quiet"

Conference officers are: A. K. Zittel, Sheboygan, president; John Pettit, Chippewa Falls, first vice president; Ernest J. Gundy, North Olmsted, Ohio, second vice president; Charles M. Gibson, Lincoln, Ill., treasurer; and Sam Anderson, Green Bay, secretary.

The board of governors consists of Arthur Roepke, Medina, Ohio; Tod Hanson, Fremont, Neb.; Colum McDermott, Melrose Park, Ill.; Levi G. Johnson, St. Cloud; Garnet Spring, Rochester, Minn.; Donald Bandy, Dubuque, Iowa; Fred Kaiser, Roseville, Mich.; Joseph L. Moore, Springfield, Ill., is the organization's legal counsel.

Election of officers and governors for the coming year will be Wednesday morning.

Retires After 42 Years

Tuttle Press Honors Board Chairman Purdy

More than 42 years of service to Tuttle Press Co. was recognized Monday at a testimonial dinner at the Elks Club for H. D. Purdy, chairman of the board, who will retire in October.

Thirty office personnel and foremen honored the long-time company official with a plaque and camera. The plaque showed an artist's conception of the phases of Purdy's life spent with the company.

Mr. Purdy started with the company June 5, 1924 and was made assistant superintendent in September, 1925. He remained assistant superintendent until 1928 when he took the assignment of superintendent. Purdy was made the company's vice president in 1945 and was named to the presidency in 1948. He was elected to the board's top position in 1961.

Purdy said this morning his plans for retirement are incomplete. However, he and Mrs. Purdy intend to spend the winter in Florida with the exception of the Christmas holidays which will be spent in Florham Park, N.J., with his grandchildren.

Independent Hasn't Filed For Sheriff

Donald J. Heinritz, who last week took out nomination papers as an independent candidate for sheriff, had not filed the papers with the Outagamie County clerk's office as of 1 p.m., four hours before filing deadline.

Nor had anyone else filed independent nomination papers for any county offices, it was learned.

Heinritz, who was defeated by Undersheriff Norbert Marx in the primary election earlier this month, said at noon today that he was "undecided" as to whether or not he will file.

Already in the race are Marx, on the Republican ticket, and Robert Main, a Democrat who is a lieutenant on the Kaukauna police force.

Naval Reserve Has Openings for Students

The Appleton Naval Reserve has a few openings for students attending college, according to Commander Robert E. Bodoh, officer-in-charge of the local navy training facility.

Vacancies exist primarily for male students in their freshmen year, but others also are invited to inquire, Bodoh said. Persons selected will receive a commission as an officer in the Navy upon graduation.

Inquiry should be made at the headquarters of the Naval Reserve on North Ballard Road, Appleton.

Youth Gets Jail Plus Fines on Four Traffic Charges

Gary Zimmerman, 17, 1725 N. Mason St., this morning lost his driver's license for eight months, was sentenced to five days in jail and was fined $50 and costs or an additional 24 days in jail. He earlier pleaded guilty to four traffic charges brought by Kimberly police.

The youth was arrested Sept. 10 on charges of attempting to elude police, reckless driving, failure to stop for stop signs and speeding 60 miles an hour in a 35 m.p.h. zone.

Zimmerman appeared Sept. 20 in Outagamie County Court Branch 2 after he was waived from juvenile court jurisdiction. He pleaded guilty to all four counts and was released to the custody of his father until this morning when he appeared for sentencing.

Proposed School Budget Deletions Total $77,900

Costs for 1967 Still $797,312 Higher Than Last Year; Some Increases Approved by Board

Deletions totaling $77,900, made Monday by the Appleton Board of Education, cut the 1967 Appleton school budget to $5,626,161.

This still represents an increase of $797,312 over last year's budget.

Partly offsetting the deletions were additions of $22,927 since the proposed Sept. 19 budget which totaled $5,704,061.

Due to reclassification of 20 teachers who had earned extra credits, $3,000 was added. An additional executive secretary for the superintendent and director of business accounted for $5,000 more; a distributive education teacher at the senior high, who will work for 12 months instead of the four months, for $5,600; blacktopping and three catch basins at Huntley School, $5,125, and a matron for the deaf class, $3,000.

Rising prices in nearly every category and the addition of more than 40 teachers, as well as the opening of two new schools in 1967, were cited as reasons for the total increase.

Subtract School Aids

The total, however, does not represent the actual amount which will determine Appleton's tax levy for the school budget since income figures have not been taken out of the total.

The final request which the board will make to the city's finance committee in October will be the expense budget less total aids expected by the system. That difference will determine the tax levy.

Major deletions, totaling about $41,500, were made in the area of instruction. Nearly $12,000 was cut from the AHS West budget for one-fourth of the salaries of four persons who are in the job training program provided for under the Vocational Education Act of 1965. When the original budget was drawn, it was not known part of the salaries would be reimbursed by the state.

Another $3,400 was deleted from the salary of the dean of girls at AHS West, since part of the salary of Miss Annabelle

Wolf, who is assisting at the University of Wisconsin this year, will be paid by UW.

Aid Administrator

The board also took out $10,000 for a federal accounts administrator and $3,900 for a secretary in that department since James Retson, now on leave of absence, will return in 1967, freeing James Westphal, who replaced Retson, to work with the federal aids programs.

The rest of the cuts in instruction included travel expenses for teachers and resource personnel, $1,275; clerk's salary, $1,783; and part of an assistant audio visual director's salary, $1,500.

A proposed deputy superintendent, who would have been added to the administration staff to relieve the work load,

$40,365 Fund Requested by Health Division

Appropriation Is $4,292 Hike Over Previous Year

The Appleton Health Department has submitted a 1967 budget calling for a $40,365 appropriation.

It represents an increase of $4,292 over the current year. However, included in the request for next year is an estimated $8,400 for contractual services.

In lieu of having its own nurse, the department has contracted with the Visiting Nurse Association for services which would normally be performed by a public health nurse.

No Major Items

There are no major capital outlay items in the budget which will be filed with the board of health Wednesday for final approval.

Other matters to come before the board include:
—The monthly vital statistics report which lists 195 births, 35 deaths, four illegitimate births, 60 marriages and a low rate of communicable disease, with mumps the most prevalent.

—Adoption of a state statute, which would become a part of the local ordinances, to regulate the storage of junked automobiles.

—A resolution supporting formation of a countywide health department.

$190,000 in Bond Sales Okayed at Little Chute

Money to be Used to Complete High School; Architect to Adapt Area for Kindergarten

LITTLE CHUTE — The board of education Monday night authorized the school district's attorney to prepare a notice to sell $190,000 in school bonds to finance completion of the new public high school.

Bids on bonds are to be opened at the Oct. 24 meeting and interest on the issue will commence Nov. 1. Bonds will be sold on the basis of $10,000 per year from 1967 through 1985 with the final two payments to be $5,000. The first bond issue floated for construction of the high school amounted to $660,000.

Leo Bronkalla, superintendent of schools, was instructed to have the architect prepare preliminary plans to make a 2,000-square-foot area in the new high school suitable for a kindergarten team-teaching room.

The area below the present academic room would be utilized for kindergarten classes with the youngsters to have their own entrance and exit from the school, isolating them from the older students.

Cost of making the rooms suitable for kindergarten was estimated at between $7 and $8 per square foot, Bronkalla said. The area would be kept fairly much as originally planned, permitting the area to be easily converted back into high school classrooms when needed. The main change would be elimination of a few partitions.

Bus Transportation

Moving kindergarten classes to the high school is expected to provide additional space in the elementary school to meet demands of an increasing enrollment and to provide rooms for special courses being added to the curriculum. Kindergarten students would be transported to the high school site by bus, eliminating the danger of crossing highways. Central pick-up points for students would be provided.

Board members adopted a resolution favoring an area adopted by Appleton, Kimberly, Neenah and Menasha rather than a vocational school district divided by county lines as others have proposed.

Word was received from the Wisconsin Interscholastic Athletic Association and the Wisconsin Catholic Interscholastic Athletic Association approving the plan allowing freshmen and sophomore students from public high school to participate in athletic contests with catholic high school teams. Approval was given for the present school year.

Charles Gamsky Construction Co., contractor for the new school, was awarded a contract to install 156 feet of 5-foot sidewalk at the north end of the school at a cost of 60 cents per square foot, or $478. Board members instructed the school superintendent to secure bids on per square foot, Bronkalla said, chairs and cabinets for the library and office reception room.

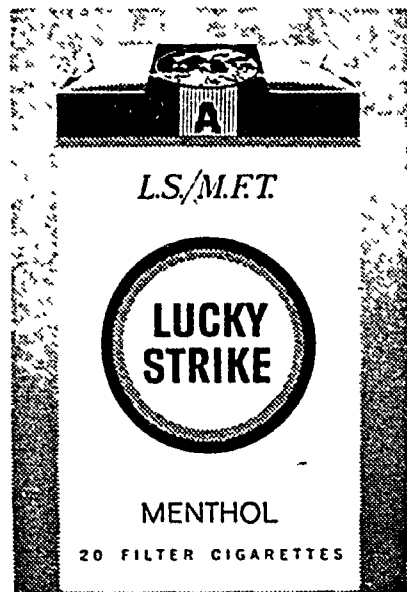

Teachers participating in inservice training sessions at the school will be granted two credits toward their credit requirements for summer school or night school attendance every three years, according to board action.

A policy was adopted granting workers sick leave amounting to five days per year, accumulating to and to provide rooms

Driver Learns Lesson Too Late to Save Friend's Life

BY ANN LANDERS

DEAR ANN LANDERS: This morning at 3 a.m. an attractive 19-year-old boy was wheeled into the emergency room. It seems this fellow (I'll call him Roy) and his buddy had had three or four (or maybe it was five) beers. Roy was driving, fell asleep at the wheel and went off the road.

In a couple of hours Roy was sitting up in bed, smoking cigarettes and joking. He had come out of the accident awfully lucky—only minor bruises. When he asked what room his buddy was killed his best friend. —Night he had not been admitted on our floor.

Roy suddenly said, "I'm going to settle down from now on. I really learned my lesson."

The next morning Roy got the news. His buddy wasn't in the hospital. He was in the morgue. Too bad he didn't learn his lesson 24 hours earlier, before he killed his best friend. —Night Nurse.

Dear Night Nurse: In the majority of fatal accidents, it is not the driver, but the person seated next to the driver, who becomes the statistic. And so it was with Roy's best friend. Your letter should be a warning to all teen-age drivers who think a few beers won't affect their ability to handle a car.

DEAR ANN: Please don't think my problem is too dumb to print. I need to know how long a kiss is supposed to last.

I go with a great girl who happens to be a Yogi fan and a medal-winning long distance swimming champion. I hate to admit it but she is in better shape than I am.

Last night she got sore at me because I broke away first when we were kidding. She claims I "rejected" her. I told her I did not such a thing. She said a fellow never is supposed to break away from a kiss first.

Landers

that he is supposed to stay with it just as long as the girl does. Is she right? What are the rules? Please advise me. —WINDED.

Dear Winded: I know of no rules on kissing. People are supposed to make up their own rules as they go along.

I suspect it's not rules that you need, Buddy-Boy, it's endurance. If you plan to continue to go with this girl you'd better get in shape. DEAR ANN LANDERS: Skip the Sunday School lesson and give me some practical advice. I am 53 years old but could pass for 45. I have been married twice and both times I picked handsome, smooth-talking phonies who gambled, chased and wouldn't hold a steady job.

I have worked like a horse since I was 16 and I am plain tired. Now I have a chance to marry a widower, 64. He has a good income and drives a brand new car which I can use whenever I want to. The problem is that the man ing to make if the man had financial reverses and got sick and YOU had to take care of HIM? Think about his possibility before you make the move.

"The Bride's Guide," Ann Landers' booklet, answers some of the most frequently asked questions about weddings. To receive your copy of this comprehensive guide, write to Ann Landers, in care of this newspaper, enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 35 cents in coin.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

an executive secretary position. Outagamie is one of but a few Wisconsin counties maintaining such a post.

Said Esler: "The counties that do not have one (an executive secretary) do not know what they're missing. We need someone like this to keep us informed." Alvin Woehler is Outagamie County's first executive secretary.

Hillenbrand cited the $14.6 billion in federal monies to be made available to local government as reflective of the need for a federal aid coordinator at the county level.

He said it is "alarming" how little the counties are participating in many of the federal aid programs. "It is the citizenry that is losing out," Hillenbrand remarked.

A federal aid coordinator, he added, would be the "contact man" between his county and the various state and federal

Downtown Kiwanians Announce Candidates For Oct. 5 Election

Members of Kiwanis Club of Appleton, Inc., will elect officers and four three-year members to the board of directors at their meeting Oct. 5.

The slate for officers was introduced by William Solberg, chairman of the nominating committee, as Jack Manwell, president; Wayne Berkley, first vice president, and Leon Gabriel and Edward Krueger, second vice president.

Candidates for the board of directors for the period of 1967 to 1969 are Fred T. Heinritz, Donald F. Anderson, Gordon H. Bebeau, William F. Boettge, Robert E. Hadley, Maurice I. Lewis, Charles M. Riley, and Gene Steinhorst. agencies and could be the liaison between the county and units of government therein.

Too Complex
The job is too big and too professional, Hillenbrand indicated.

Some 450 counties already have created the position of federal aid coordinator, officials heard.

Both of Hillenbrand's proposals were supported by a three-man panel of county board chairmen.

Of the federal aid coordinator, Dane County Board Chairman George H. Harb remarked, "Whether or not you like the Great Society programs, — and I don't — let's take full advantage of them."

Jerome E. Martin of Manitowish County thought a county administrator and a federal aid coordinator could "work as one" in a county of his size.

Donald L. Quistoff, chairman of the Kewaunee County Board, warned that in small counties such as his, it would be difficult to "break tradition" to create the two positions, although he said he favors such a move.

K-C Hosts Guidance Workshop

NEENAH — Kimberly-Clark Foundation's fifth annual high school guidance counselors' traveling workshop begins a journey to Madison Thursday afternoon.

Twenty-seven area high school counselors will participate in the three-day session, for which Warren F. Jarvis of the Kimberly Senior High School is coordinator. Through these workshops, counselors are able to learn first-hand about educational opportunities beyond the secondary school level.

Workshop activities begin Thursday afternoon at the Truax Field education office, where Air Force personnel will describe educational opportunities open to servicemen. Programs Friday will be held at the University of Wisconsin school of nursing, Madison's Business College and Vocational School, the Wisconsin Diagnostic Center and the Wisconsin School of Electronics. On the return trip Saturday morning, the group will visit Ripon College.

Participating from Appleton will be Sister Mary Sebastian and Giles Clark of Xavier High School and Glen LaFrombois of Appleton West; from Kaukauna, Fred Barribeau, Jerome Kroll, Kathleen Davis and Shelby Lemke; from Kimberly, James Haas and Jarvis; from Little Chute, Boyd Kohn; from Menasha, the Rev. John Dewane and Sister Vincetta of St. Mary High School and Bernard LeRoy and Bernice Miller of Menasha High School. Dorothy Brudger will represent Neenah High School, Josephine Schneider, Lee Weigert, and Brother James Roszak, Oshkosh; Floyd Smith, Seymour; William Morrissey and John Amburgy, Hortonville, and Allen Mattson, Clintonville. The other five counselors are from the area in and around Niagara, Wis., where Kimberly-Clark has a printing and publication paper plant.

In Menasha House With Two Front Doors Gets Approval

MENASHA — A house that had to trade its ends for sides to satisfy city regulations has met and overcome new difficulties — this time located underground.

Building Inspector Earl Kalm has issued a permit for construction of a home for Oscar J. Moe by Schmidt Builders, Inc., on the corner lot at 800 Nicolet Blvd.

Before the permit was granted, however, city officials insisted on a letter from Moe acknowledging that the home is to be built over sewer and water mains which were, according to Moe, installed about midway through the lot. An easement had provided that they should be placed within the northern 15 feet of the property.

The city accepted the letter, in which the owner stated he understood the city would bear full responsibility for any damage to the property that might result in the future from the mains.

Earlier this year, the board of appeals ordered Moe to install a door facing Nicolet Boulevard in the end of the 32 by 96 foot house, giving the home an address on the boulevard rather than on Winnebago Avenue, which parallels the longer dimensions of the building.

This was ordered so what previously had been the back yard would become a side yard, adjoining the lot line of the next house to the east on Nicolet Boulevard. If the yard was considered a back yard, it would be far smaller than the minimum permitted under city regulations. But, the required minimum for a side yard is smaller — and closer to the Moe yard size.

Moe indicated he would have the contractor design a door in the end of the house, even though the family would probably use the entrance on Winnebago Avenue as a front door.

The home, to be built at an estimated bare building cost of $22,000, is the 27th for which a permit has been issued in the city this year. The 27th permit in 1965 was issued more than a month earlier, on Aug. 18, according to Kalm's records.

School Board Approves Cuts Of $77,900 was postponed to lessen the budget by an additional $6,000.

Nearly $12,700 was cut from the capital outlay budget. More than $6,000 of it was deleted from the AHS West industrial arts and printing equipment budget. A cut in supplies and equipment for the four junior high schools accounted for the other $6,700 in deletions.

Fixed Charges
Of the total budget, nearly 91 per cent constitutes fixed charges. About $4.2 million makes up teacher salaries, approved by the board earlier in the year. An amount of $4.50 per pupil is included to purchase library books. Last year the library rate was $4.

Other major increases include increasing one-way bus fare from 10 to 12.5 cents per pupil, increased custodial and utilities expenses at the new schools, a new public address system in AHS West and municipal retirement and social security benefits for employees of the school system.

William Knuth, business director, has prepared the budget in detail for review by the Appleton council, which will review it in mid-October.

you make up the two days that you lose by going to the convention?"

In the spring of 1965 an election was held in Appleton and the Appleton Education Association, members of WEA, was selected to be the predominant teacher organization with exclusive rights to bargain on conditions of employment, hours and wages.

Must Draw Line
"Though we certainly believe the teachers should be allowed to belong to whichever group they choose, we must draw the line somewhere as far as bargaining rights are concerned," Kenneth Sager, another board member, said.

"If we allow our members to attend the convention and take two days off, what would prevent other such organizations from requesting the same consideration?" John Schneider, a board member, asked.

According to DeBroux, the convention dates were changed this year — because of a lack of facilities in Milwaukee to house two big conventions and because it has been difficult to get book companies to exhibit in two places at the same time.

In previous years both conventions were at the same time.

Officers Going
The five officers of ATU requesting to attend the convention are DeBroux; Susan Stefens, secretary; Orv Koepke, treasurer; Michael Towlsley, vice president, and Salvatore Tralango, a member of the executive committee of WFT.

The five delegates include Rollie Winter, Gordon Braun, James Bastian, Arlene Antoine and Adeline Pfingsten.

Kimberly Police Report Varied Vandalism Acts

KIMBERLY — Village police reported numerous complaints on vandalism over the weekend over a wide portion of the village.

Representatives of Morris Construction Co., Oshkosh, working on a project north of W. Kimberly Avenue, reported hydraulic fluid drained from a tractor, about 16 gallons of gasoline siphoned from tanks and a truck headlight broken.

Lloyd Hermen, 117 Birch St., reported all windows on school buses, parked near 204 W. Kimberly Ave., sprayed with green and red paint. Kimberly-Clark officials reported numerous broken bottles in the woodyards near the Chicago and North Western Railway tracks and evidence of numerous attempts to start fires.

Darrell Larson, principal of Kimberly High School, reported wood stolen from the construction project at the school and found later near the railroad tracks. Trees were reported cut, down and glass shot out of windows and doors at the sewage plant. At Sunset Point Park, toilet bowls were blocked and an effort made to tear plumbing fixtures and partitions from the walls.

THE ALAMO

Man has a right to provide for his own future, secure from adverse intervention. For thirteen days in the early spring of 1836, one hundred eighty-four men defended this precept at the Alamo. Appleton to Re-Advertise for Bids for Recreational Director

Action Follows Council Approval Of Deleting Degree Requirement

At an informal meeting at the city hall Monday afternoon, a decision was arrived at to re-advertise for applicants for the post of Appleton recreation director, which has a $630-$730 monthly pay range.

The action comes on the heels of a recommendation by a split vote of the park-recreation commission, and subsequent approval by the council last week in reducing the qualifications for the position.

Under revised qualifications, a college degree no longer is required as listed in the ordinance and original advertising several weeks ago.

Study Next Step

Meeting to discuss the next step to take was Mayor George Buckley, Arthur Jones, Ald. Arthur Mueller (19th) and atty. Wendell Smith, commission members; and Jerry Rusch, city personnel director.

Rusch explained today that he was merely instructed to carry out the terms of a previous request from the park-recreation commission to advertise again for job applicants.

Rusch indicated that after it appeared obvious that job qualifications were going to be revised, he received inquiries from others interested in applying for the position. They had not done so before because of the college degree requirement.

Once additional applications are received, Rusch will ask the State Bureau of Personnel to give written exams to the new candidates.

In the meantime, he has written the 10 that passed the previous test that they need not write another and said if they still were interested, they would be considered for the position.

Others with college degrees, who filed late the first time around, also were notified they were eligible to take the latest test.

The handling of the recreation director appointment has created a rift among commission members and was a major issue at the last council meeting. There have been charges — and denials — that the change was sought so a local man could be named to the post.

Menasha Works Head Moves Out

MENASHA — Public Works Director Robert J. Poss was not in his office this morning and it was uncertain if or when he might return.

Mayor Kenneth Holmes, asked to comment on widespread reports that Poss had resigned, would say only, "He has asked for two weeks vacation, and he got it." The mayor repeated the statement in reply to all other questions, adding, "Any statement you might get, you'll have to ask him."

Poss confirmed today that he had "moved out" of his office, and was about to leave for his cottage for a vacation. He stated there was a slight chance he might be persuaded to return.

When asked if there was a

6th Ward Councilman Resigns

MENASHA — Sixth Ward Ald. John L. Resch, three-fourths of the way through his first term on the common council, has submitted his resignation to Mayor Kenneth Holmes.

Resch revealed his decision at a meeting of the street and sanitation committee Monday night. He is committee vice chairman.

He said he and his family plan to move to the Brighton Beach area in the Town of Menasha from their present home at 720 Ida St.

His resignation is effective Oct. 1, which means the vacancy is likely to come up to be filled at the next council meeting, Oct. 4.

Resch said he enjoys fishing and living on Lake Winnebago has been a hope of his family for a long time.

Recover Body of Man From Lake

WINNECONNE — The body of Lot P. Coventry, 81, of 108 N. Eighth Ave., was recovered from Lake Winnebago near Pine Crest Resort here about 2:30 p.m. Monday.

Winnebago County Coroner Arthur Miller ruled the death due to a heart attack. Mr. Coventry was known to have a heart ailment.

An empty 14-foot row boat, equipped with life cushions, was floating near the body when it was sighted by Mr. and Mrs. Rayond Davis, Chicago visitors in the area. They reported the boat to sheriff's officers.

Coventry was born Oct. 29, 1884 at Harvard, Ill. He operated an auto agency at Fontana from 1912 to 1946 and a resort near Hayward from 1948 to 1953. Upon his retirement, the family made its home here.

Neenah Red Cross Receives Special Appeal for Blood

NEENAH — A special plea for emergency blood in Peoria, Ill. was made to the Neenah Red Cross which opens its two-day blood collection at 2 p.m. today and continues through Wednesday at St. Paul's Lutheran Church.

The local chapter received an emergency alert at 9:15 a.m. today from the Midwestern Area Headquarters of St. Louis, asking that blood centers ship whatever blood they can to the Peoria, Illinois Hospital. A critical shortage exists there because the blood center has been shut down since last Thursday when three Red Cross nurses and the Red Cross chapter chairman were killed in an automobile accident enroute to make a blood collection.

The goal is 312 pints and drop-in donors are urged to answer the special appeal.

Hours are until 8 p.m. today and from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. Wednesday.

Sends Letter to Attorneys

Judge Asks Prompt Annexation Trial

MENASHA — Judge A. W. Parnell has urged a prompt trial of the main annexation court suit by the town against the city.

The lawsuit, challenging the city's annexation of some 183 acres from the town more than a year ago, has been pending since late last fall.

The town's special counsel in the case, Atty. George St. Peter, Fond du Lac, said Monday afternoon he had not yet decided how he would reply to the judge's letter.

Menasha City Atty. Richard J. Steffens said the city's case has been ready for some time and added the judge issued a pretrial order in March, to which the city responded it was ready.

St. Peter had conducted a series of pre-trial factfinding hearings to gather material for his case, but the hearings were suspended early this year with the stated intention at that time that they should be resumed. So far, however, none have been called.

Judge Parnell said this morning he had asked the attorneys to take steps to bring the matter to a conclusion "one way or the other."

The street and sanitation committee okayed the plan Monday evening, and with council approval, the spraying could begin sometime after Oct. 15.

Public Works Director Wayne Bryan told committee members the task would take only two days and is estimated to cost only $1 per tree. This means the total price would be less than $6,000 for the 5,549 elm trees in the city by latest count. Last year some $19,000 was spent on the spraying program from the ground.

The firm to be contracted is Omniflight Helicopters, Inc., Janesville, which handled the spraying program in Fond du Lac, Oshkosh, suburban Milwaukee and areas around Detroit.

Neenah had 64 diseased elm trees in 1965 but the number was boosted to 99 this summer. The laboratories at the State Department of Agriculture closed on Sept. 1 for testing of Dutch Elm Disease (DED) samples, with a record number of diseased trees counted throughout the state.

Bryan said DED was found in ation of their cases and stating he is ready to conduct the trial as soon as possible.

New School Unlikely to be Open in '67

MENASHA — The schedule of bidding, awarding contracts and starting construction on the proposed 20 classroom elementary school on Airport Road depends upon how the City of Menasha answers the letter of Sauter-Seaborn architects asking the city to verify the bonding time and who will supply water and sewer to the new school.

Robert Paynter, architect, told the board of education Monday night he is hopeful that these two points will be determined this week, but even if they are favorable to immediate action, it is unlikely that the new school can be ready for occupancy by September, 1967.

balance includes 253 from out-of-state and 60 from foreign countries.

Race Criticizes Knowles' Action In Horicon Issue

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Rep. John A. Race charged today that the governor of Wisconsin has turned the controversial Wisconsin goose hunting issue into a "political football" in an effort to cover his own guilt.

Race said Gov. Warren Knowles "failed miserably" when he was called on to produce definitive action on the part of the Wisconsin goose hunters "and now he is trying to cover his failure by pointing the finger at the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service."

The Sixth District Democrat said Knowles should have offered his opinions on this issue when the matter was being decided in Washington six weeks ago.

Water Utility Gets Okay At Oshkosh

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau
MADISON — The first phase, costing about $700,000, of a project to bring the Oshkosh city water utility to a 10 million gallon per day capacity has been approved by the Public Service Commission.

The completed project is expected to raise city water production to a level to reduce the need for voluntary reductions of water use during peak seasons, as has been frequently done in the past, according to the commission.

Included in the project will be the enlargement and improvement of the water treatment facility of the plant. The water is drawn from Lake Winnebago and requires extensive treatment before distribution to the utility's customers, the commission noted.

In recent years the utility has made improvements and has enlarged some of its facilities. Part of the plant equipment can now handle the expected 10 million gallon per day capacity. The additional improvement project will bring the remainder of the plant equipment up to that level.

Enlargement or renovation is scheduled for the mixing basin and sedimentation tanks, the filter piping and control equipment, chemical feeders, and the sludge disposal system.

Association Poll Shows Union Dues Withheld By Minority of Counties

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau
MADISON — Withholding of labor union dues from employees' salary checks is common in Wisconsin county government, but the majority of counties do not use such a method of assisting labor organizations, the Wisconsin County Boards Association reports in a poll of county practices.

The association said that 33 counties report using the withholding method, while 37 replied that they do not.

Another poll indicated that only 14 counties have used the state life insurance program to provide benefits for their employees and officials.

Kenilworth Prints Do Not Match Minnesota Man's

STURGEON BAY — Door County Sheriff Hollis Bridenbagen said today that fingerprints of a Minnesota prison farm escapee do not match any of the prints found at the Valerie Percy slaying scene in Kenilworth, Ill.

The escapee, Patrick Fred Scott, 28, St. Cloud, Minn., was questioned about the Percy slaying after his arrest at Algoma early Saturday for breaking and entering of the Harlan Oby general store at Alaska, Wis.

Bridenbagen said that the Chicago crime laboratory told him that Scott's fingerprints did not match any of the prints found in the Percy home and that plans to send someone to Kewaunee to question Scott have been called off. Scott is being held in the Kewaunee County jail to await a hearing Oct. 7.

Immunization Notices For School Children Placed in Mail Today

Letters concerning immunization of school children were sent to pupil's homes today, according to Lucy Lang, school nurse. The letter was a reminder to parents of children who have not had a small pox vaccination in the past five years, and those in need of diphtheria-tetanus booster shots.

The letters were sent on the basis of the nurse's office records. The child is to be taken to the family doctor or sign up for the school clinic.

The letters also serve as a reminder to parents and any pre-schooler in the family, to make arrangements for a measles shot, if necessary.

Graphic Arts Course Scheduled for Adult Vocational Schools

A graphic arts course titled "How to Sell Printing," will be offered at the Appleton Vocational School, to supplement the printing estimating course.

Each course will run for 10 weeks with two classes in each course per week.

The estimating class will be from 7 to 9 p.m. Mondays and Wednesdays, beginning Oct. 3; the selling class, from 7 to 9 p.m. Tuesdays and Thursdays beginning Oct. 4.

Both classes are sponsored by the vocational schools of Neenah-Menasha, Kimberly, Appleton and Kaukauna.

Full information about the classes may be obtained at any participating schools.

Counties, Municipalities Plan Counselling Board

Propose Joint Venture to Serve Local Government in Labor Relation Problems

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau
MADISON — The League of Wisconsin Municipalities and the Wisconsin County Boards Association are proposing the creation of a unique labor relations bureau that would serve them cooperatively in counselling and assisting local government officers on labor problems.

The plan was disclosed today in the Association's publication which said it will be put before the annual association convention at LaCrosse next week for ratification.

Officials explained that under the proposed schedule of charges for membership, most of the counties and at least 50 of the larger cities and villages of the state would be required to join to raise an estimated budget requirement of about $36,000 a year.

Volunteers Give Scout Work Impact

Men and women who volunteer as leaders in the Boy Scouts movement are responsible for a special type of educational impact on youth, according to John Borg, organization and extension Chairman of the Valley Council.

"The Scout program provides a type of training for boys from eight through 17 years," Borg said, "that is difficult to duplicate in other kinds of youth activities."

Borg pointed out that adults who volunteer to serve in scouting may become a leader of boys in a Cub Scout pack, Boy Scout troop, or Explorer post; serve as an instructor in one of the more than 100 hobby and vocational fields; help scout units as assistant leaders or on committees; or take part in activities, organizing scout units, administering Boy Scout camps, or offering training.

In the Valley Council, there are 1,640 adults who serve in positions that are related to the council's 5,000 Cub Scouts, Boy Scouts, and Explorers.

"As part of our council plan in the national Breakthrough for Youth Program of the Boy Scouts of America, we are making a special effort to invite more adults to give leadership in the council in its three districts or to serve boys through the 71 organizations that are chartered to use the scout program," Borg said.

Information about Scouting is available from the Scout service center, 106 W. College Ave.

Fall at Home Results In Trip to Hospital

Complaining of back and shoulder pains after a fall at her home, Mrs. Patrick Geenen, 802 W. Northland Ave., was taken to St. Elizabeth Hospital in Larry's Ambulance at about 4:30 p.m. Sunday.

Causes Jurisdictional Jealousies

Local Historical Units May Hurt State Society

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau
MADISON — The business of local history is too booming, according to the director of the State Historical Society.

Dr. Leslie H. Fishel says there may be too many local historical societies in the state, and the result may not be good for the preservation of local history.

Fishel says that of the 94 local societies affiliated with the State Historical Society, 55 per cent of them have been formed since 1950, and more than one-third of the local groups are less than seven years old.

The result, according to Fishel, has in some cases been the rise of jurisdictional jealousies and of a duplication of effort in the field of local history that is of doubtful value.

Supports Concept
In an editorial in the summer issue of the "Wisconsin Magazine of History," Fishel supports the concept of the local historical society on a city or county basis, but says that the state society may in the future have to discourage formation of local societies where others are already in existence.

The special bureau would provide counsel and information on labor problems that have become more complex and numerous for local government elected officers. This was caused by enactment of new state laws in recent years encouraging the formation of local labor organization units in public service and instituting collective bargaining procedures.

The Association told its members that there is a need for local officials "to represent the public interest in a professional manner and to secure efficient, economical and competent public service for their citizens," without violating the rights of local public service employees guaranteed by law.

But the local service unions are frequently represented on a full-time basis by professional specialists, while the local elected officers handle labor relations as only one of the "myriad" of duties placed upon them as local government managers, the Association commented.

Both organizations are expected to ratify the cooperation compact, and to create the first joint service bureau in the history of their programs of state-wide representation of municipal and county interests.

Plans for Two Broadcast Towers Blocked in State

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau
MADISON — Construction of two broadcast towers for radio and television stations in the state has been delayed by the State Aeronautics Commission.

Acting at its regular monthly meeting, the commission turned down a request by John D. Rice of Sparta for permission to construct a tower 216 feet high for AM and FM radio broadcasting in the River Falls area in western Wisconsin, and delayed a decision on permission to construct a 999-foot tower northwest of Milwaukee for a new ultrahigh frequency television station owned by Marshall Field Co. of Chicago.

Reasons for the action in both cases stemmed from locations of an airport, in one case, and of a proposed airport, in the other.

Women's Betterment Commission Wants To Better Other Sex

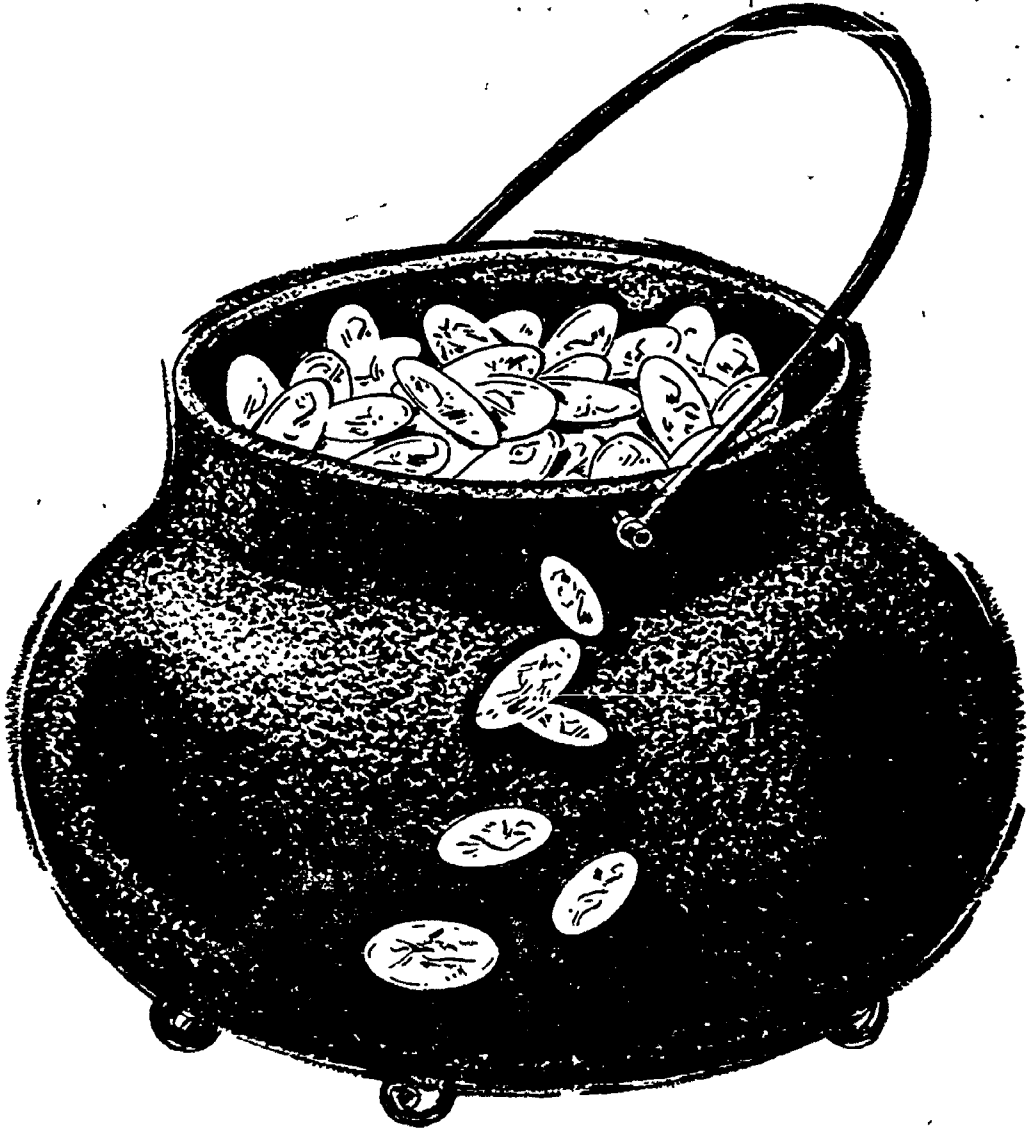

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — The Arizona Governor's Commission on the Status of Women wants the status of men improved.

In its first report, the commission's 33 women members said the lot of men should be helped in two ways:

—Farm workers should be brought under state labor laws which provide minimum work standards.

—Men should be covered by the state equal pay law, which was designed to protect working women and minors.

Waupaca's Fall Color At Its Peak

WAUPACA — Fall colors will be at their peak this week in Waupaca County, according to Sid Miller, state forest ranger, who has suggested two routes for observing the color.

The first route is from Waupaca, north on State 49 to Iola, State 161 east to County Trunk E, County Trunk E, north to Big Falls on County Trunk G and O to State 49 and back to Waupaca.

Another suggested route is from Waupaca to Iola on State 49, County Trunk G to Big Falls, County Trunk C west to the junction of County Trunk V and 49, west to County Trunk Q and down U.S. 10 back to Waupaca.

Any of the numerous side roads off either of the routes offer colorful scenery, Miller said.

Wisconsin's Savage Award Won by Rice

Badgers Launch
Big Ten Season Against Iowa

MADISON (AP)—Eric Rice, a senior defensive end, is credited with having made nine tackles during Wisconsin's gridiron loss to Southern California, and was handed the Badgers' weekly Savage Award Monday.

It was not the only bright item Coach Milt Bruhn could point to among the limited lessons learned in Wisconsin's 38-3 loss to the Trojans.

He noted his Badgers cut almost in half the yardage given USC in kick-off returns compared to the sum given Iowa State in Wisconsin's opener.

"Against Iowa State," he said, "at first we went down so hard we went out of our lanes and they got by us."

"Got Too Cautious"
"Then we turned around and got too cautious and didn't go down fast enough," he continued. "We seem to have struck a more happy medium now."

Kicking was one of Wisconsin's better features in the Los Angeles humiliation.

The Badgers open their Big Ten season against Iowa which similarly had to settle for a field goal in its 17-3 loss to Oregon State.

Rice and senior offensive tackle Phil Sobocinski have been chosen co-captains for the Saturday tussle with Iowa. The same pair captained the Iowa State conquest.

The Badgers went through a 20-minute drill, then viewed motion pictures of the Los Angeles game.

Missing the drill were guard Bill Grisley, who had a bad cold and Gale Bucciarelli, who had a sore ankle.

Steve Barber Hopes to Hurl In 'Series'

BALTIMORE (AP) — The Baltimore Orioles are not counting Steve Barber out of pitching in the World Series yet.

But after being examined Monday by an orthopedic specialist, there was hope Barber would be ready for the World Series.

"The doctor told us that the swelling undoubtedly resulted from Barber pitching more in California Friday night than he has in the last couple of months," said Harry Dalton, director of player personnel.

"There has been no change in Steve's basic problem-tendinitis."

"The swelling had subsided somewhat overnight. The doctor feels that it is further reduced in the next couple of days and there is no soreness, Barber can pitch later this week."

"At this point Steve is not being counted out of the World Series. We'll wait and see what develops," he said.

Former Packer, Voss, Will Fill in for Baker With Steeler Defense

PITTSBURGH (AP) — End John Baker, captain of the Pittsburgh Steeler's defensive team, was in Divine Providence Hospital Monday for treatment of a severe hamstring muscle pull.

Baker, hobbled in the first half of Pittsburgh's 33-27 National Football League defeat by Washington Sunday, will miss next Sunday's game against Washington, the club said.

Lloyd Voss, who replaced Baker, will fill the slot next Sunday, said Coach Bill Austin.

Vince Credits Offensive Line For Playing Key Role in Win

Starr, Aldridge Come Up With Sore Ankles; Caffey Bruises Hip

GREEN BAY (AP) — When without defense," Lombardi fumbles seem to come a dime a dozen, the tendency is to calculate someone on the line is not worth a plugged nickel which means the foes may get the quarterback.

But Coach Vince Lombardi had no sour coin Monday to throw at his Green Bay Packers offensive line, and insisted the Los Angeles Rams could not cash in on Packer fumbles because quarterback Bart Starr was kept in security.

To fumble five times and still beat the Rams 24-13 Sunday had some of the Packers puzzled. "I can't remember losing five and still winning," Starr said. "You tend to forget about fumbles."

Story of Game
"The story of the game was the offensive line," Lombardi said. "They kept those big Ram linemen off Starr."

Starr passes helped Green Bay accumulate a 17-0 lead before the fumble trouble started. The quietest loss by the Packers was one short of the National Football League's loss record.

"When you fumble five times, you're putting a lot of unnecessary pressure on your defense," fullback Jim Taylor said. "It's a mark of a good team that you can pull one out under those circumstances."

Which means the Green Bay defense was required to show its storied talents in retaliation, which it did by smothering Los Angeles' for Bruce Gossett's field goals.

"You can't win in this league pen," Lombardi said. "They have been in streaks like that. That's why you hate to see the first one."

The Packers emerged from the fumble game with hands clasped around the NFL Western Division lead but they also coined some scars.

Ken Bowman dislocated his shoulder again.

"That's going to keep happening until the end of the year," Lombardi said. "Those shoulders get used to coming out."

Starr injured an ankle slightly. Lionel Aldridge also came up with ankle troubles, and Lee Roy Caffey turned a bruised hip.

Shoulder Trouble

Willie Davis, who seemingly can't get injured, pointed out the Packers' need to get a quarterback—Los Angeles' Roman Gabriel. The Packers got him.

"When the offense had to get points," Davis said with a matter of - fact outlook, "they got them; and when we had to hold them, we did."

And safetyman Tom Brown said the fumbles only inspired the defense.

"We play better when we feel the pressure," he said. "The whole ball club plays better when the pressure is on."

Swift was named interim manager of the Tigers for the second time May 16 when the late Charlie Dressen suffered his second heart attack. Dressen died Aug. 10, less than a month after another, Tigers coach, Frank Skaff, was named to replace Swift.

Fairly Leads Dodgers to 6-3 Win Over Cards; Bucs Lose

Briggs Paces Phillies to 5-4 Triumph

By MURRAY CHASS
Associated Press Sports Writer
Ron Fairly made a big hit in his official Busch Memorial Stadium debut, and John Briggs did the same in his latest performance at Connie Mack Stadium.

Reviewing both, the Pittsburgh Pirates thought highly of neither.

Fairly hit a two-run homer his first time up, then added two singles as the Los Angeles Dodgers defeated St. Louis 6-3 Monday night. Briggs, meanwhile, singled home the winning run in Philadelphia's 11-inning, 5-4 victory over the Pittsburgh Pirates.

The combination increased Los Angeles' National League lead to a commanding 2½ games over Pittsburgh and left the Dodgers in such a position that if they split their last six games the Pirates would have to win all five of theirs for a tie.

"A Little Better"
"Things are a little better than they were this morning," Dodger Manager Walter Alston said after the game.

Countered Pirate Manager Harry Walker:

"It isn't over yet."

When Fairly homered in the first inning, it marked his first official time at bat in the Cardinals' new park. In his only previous appearance, he walked. He didn't play the rest of the time the Dodgers were there because of torn cartilage in the left side of his rib cage.

The Dodger right fielder didn't stop with the homer, though. He added two singles, Turn to Page 11, Col. 3

AFL, NFL Still Face Major Battle
With House of Representatives

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation's two major professional football leagues lead at halftime in their bid to gain congressional approval of their proposed merger.

But the second half should be as tough as any played by one of their teams on a Sunday afternoon.

The Senate approved Monday a bill that would sanction the combining of the National and American football leagues. The bill was sent to the House, where it will be given to the Judiciary Committee, chaired by Rep. Emanuel Celler, D-N.Y.

Without Hearings
The sports bill was passed by the Senate Judiciary Committee last week without any hearings and by the full Senate without discussion.

The bill exempts action already taken by the leagues but does not grant them complete future exemption from antitrust action.

"I can't accept a bill as important as that without holding any hearings," said Celler. He refused to act three weeks ago on a Senate-passed measure to completely exempt the merger from antitrust laws. "I can't buy a pig in the poke."

"I feel the Senate acted precipitously in passing the bill without holding any hearings on it and without any discussion on the floor."

Irish Climb to Fourth Place
In AP Grid Poll

By BEN OLAN
Associated Press Sports Writer
Notre Dame's football team is over its tough opening game hurdle and is gaining ground swiftly in the weekly Associated Press college poll.

The Irish made the most rapid advance among the leaders this week, moving from eighth place to fourth on the strength of their 26-14 victory over Purdue.

Michigan State strengthened its lead in the poll, moving 35 points ahead of runner-up UCLA. The Spartans, who led by 10 points a week ago, collected 22 first-place votes and 367 points in the balloting by 40 regional selectors. UCLA had 11 first-place votes and 332 points on a basis of 10 for a first-place vote, 9 for second etc.

Have 2-0 Records
The Spartans and UCLA each have 2-0 records, Michigan State after trouncing Penn State 42-8 and the Bruins after defeating Syracuse 31-12 last Saturday.

Alabama, the national champion the past two years, edged Notre Dame for third. The Crimson Tide had 266 points, five more than the Irish. Alabama opened its season with a 34-0 victory over Louisiana Tech.

There also was a close vote for fifth place with Southern California retaining that position with 208 points followed by Nebraska with 203 and Arkansas, 201.

The Trojans whipped Wisconsin 34-7.

Los Angeles Has Edge in Stretch Drive

By HAL BOCK
Associated Press Sports Writer
The National League pennant race has reached its critical final week with Pittsburgh leading Los Angeles ... in pitching aches and pains.

The pitcher-thin Pirates, trailing the Dodgers by 2½ games with five to play will use Bob Veale, Vern Law and Woody Fryman the rest of the way. Of the trio, only Fryman is completely sound physically.

Los Angeles, with six left, has Don Drysdale, Don Sutton, Claude Osteen and the country's No. 1 arthritis patient, Sandy Koufax, set for the stretch drive.

Veale, his back heavily taped, goes for the Pirates tonight against Philadelphia's Larry Jackson. The tall left-hander figures to get his final start of the regular season Saturday against the San Francisco Giants.

Wrenched Back
Veale wrenched his back last month and has been troubled ever since.

Law, who goes against Jim Bunning Wednesday, also is hurting. He beat Atlanta 6-6 Saturday but didn't finish. He came up sore later.

Law, 36, has won 12 games but missed a month at the start of the season with a pulled rib muscle.

Fryman, opens the final series of the regular season Friday when he faces the Giants at Forbes Field.

The rookie left-hander, who has won 12, will be followed by Veale and Law Saturday and Sunday if the two ailing hurlers can make it. Tommy Sisk, a 10-game winner, looms as the No. 1 replacement. After that it's catch-as-catch-can.

Better Equipped

Don Drysdale, who has won his last three starts, goes for Los Angeles tonight against the Cardinals' Ray Washburn.

Don Sutton, the Dodgers' rookie right-hander, gets Wednesday night's assignment against Larry Jaster, who has shut out Los Angeles four straight times.

Sutton missed two weeks with a pulled muscle in his forearm but apparently has recovered from the injury.

Koufax and his arthritic left elbow go after victory No. 26 Thursday with Al Jackson likely to pitch for the Cardinals.

For the final weekend of the season, Los Angeles Manager Walt Alston plans to use Claude Osteen, who's 17-13, Drysdale and Koufax in that order against Philadelphia.

drove in another one and scored one more.

Briggs didn't make his entrance at Connie Mack Stadium until the sixth inning when he beat out an infield single as a pinch hitter and eventually scored the run that gave the Phillies a 4-3 lead.

Two-Out Single

The Pirates tied it, however, and Briggs had to come through with a two-out, run-scoring single in the 11th.

In the only other National League game, third-place San Francisco remained four games out by whipping Atlanta 8-2. Rain washed out New York at Cincinnati.

Juan Marichal pitched a six-hitter for his 24th victory against six defeats. One of the hits was Felipe Alou's 31st homer for Atlanta. The Giants easily offset that blow, however, as Willie McCovey unloaded his 35th homer, a two-run blow, in the first inning, and Tom Haller connected with two on in the fourth.

Allows Four Hits

Detroit's Denny McLain allowed California just four hits in eight innings and won his 20th game against 13 defeats. Gates Brown batted for McLain in the ninth and singled home Mickey Stanley with the winning run. Stanley led off the inning with a triple.

Darrell Brandon scattered seven hits in Boston's opening-game shutout over Washington. Dalton Jones supported him with three hits and three runs batted in.

The Senators came back in the nightcap, however, winning on Don Lock's two-run homer in the seventh inning. Joe Coleman stopped the Red Sox on six hits.

Laird Also Takes Opposition To Hazing of Horicon Geese

HORICON (AP)—Another Wisconsin congressman has joined a growing list of opponents to the government's noisy hazing of Canada geese from Horicon National Wildlife Refuge.

Rep. Melvin Laird, R - Wis., said Monday in Washington he told Interior Secretary Stewart Udall that "setting off explosives and fireworks to chase the geese from Horicon Marsh is inhumane."

A Circuit Court judge has scheduled a hearing Thursday for the government to show cause why a restraining order should not be issued against the U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service hazing program.

The service hopes to keep the refuge's goose population to a third of the number of migrating honkers normally clogging the marsh each fall. Firecrackers and gas-fired cannon are being used to frighten geese on-ward to Illinois.

A state conservation official suggested that federal agents be arrested for violation anti-hazing laws, and Wisconsin's two U.S. Senators — William Prosser and federal wardens.

Jets Dominate AFL Statistics

Unbeaten New York Sets Pace in All But One Department

NEW YORK (AP) — Weeb Ewbank, boss of the unbeaten New York Jets, is enjoying the best of all possible worlds for a football coach.

American Football League statistics released today show the Jets leading five of the six league categories in offense and defense.

Joe Namath's strong right arm has given New York an average of 232.3 yards per game in the air, 15 more than Houston has averaged on the passing of veteran George Blanda.

Boston, paced by burly Jim Nance, leads the rushing offense with 139.7 yards gained per game along the ground. San Diego is second with 136.

The Jets' total offense shows an average of 357.3 yards per game with Kansas City's 334 good for second place.

On defense, the Jets lead in all categories. New York has allowed just 66 yards per game along the ground and 100.7 through the air. Houston is second in rushing defense with 92 yards allowed per game and Oakland is second in passing defense with 128.3 allowed through the air.

New York leads in total defense with 166.7 yards allowed per game and Oakland is second with 237.8.

Tobin Rote Trying Out With Broncos

DENVER, Colo. (AP) — The Denver Broncos of the American Football League announced Monday the appointment of Bob Griffin of the University of Arkansas as an assistant line coach.

Griffin, 37, was a center and linebacker for Arkansas in 1951. He played in the National and Canadian leagues.

The Broncos also announced that Tobin Rote, 38, a quarterback, had accepted an invitation for a tryout. He retired last year after 15 years of pro ball.

The Broncos said the San Diego Chargers had given Denver its rights to Rote in exchange for an undisclosed draft choice.

Miss Ehret Wins Ladies PGA Title

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — Gloria Ehret of Danbury, Conn., is the Ladies' Professional Golf Association champion.

Miss Ehret won the Ladies' PGA Tournament Sunday with a score of 282, after finishing the fourth round with a four over par 75. She was awarded $2,475.

Runner-up was Mickey Wright of Dallas whose final round 77 made a total of 285.

Built-in Lure for Boy

No. 44 Has Become Symbolic at Syracuse

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (AP) — As long as there's a Syracuse University football team there always will be a number "44." And, as long as there's a "44," there probably always will be an outstanding player at left half-back for Syracuse.

It has become one of the most coveted sweater numbers in college football. It's a built-in lure for a boy, particularly a Negro boy, who likes to run with the football.

The number now graces the orange jersey of Floyd Little, a 195-pound, bow-legged will o' the wisp from New Haven, Conn., already being boomed for All America honors.

Super Special

Before that, it was worn by such greats as Jimmy Brown and the late Ernie Davis. It's a sort of mantle, to be draped on the shoulders of only the super special.

"I was intent on going to Notre Dame," explains Little, who scored 19 touchdowns as a junior last year. "Then Ernie Davis came to see me. He promised I could wear '44.' That clinched it."

Before Little, Davis, a poor boy from Elmira, N.Y., winner of the Heisman Trophy and later victim of Leukemia, was recruited by Brown.

Twins' Pitcher, Kaat Named August Winner Of Rea Hickok Award

NEW YORK (AP) — Pitcher Jim Kaat, the 25-game winner for the Minnesota Twins, was named winner Monday of the August award in the S. Rea Hickok Pro Athlete of the Year poll.

The left-hander received 34 first place votes and 126 points to beat out Baltimore slugger Frank Robinson. The Orioles outfielder received 22 first placers and 84 points.

Jim Nash, rookie pitcher of the Kansas City Athletics, was third with 12 and 51.

Bays, Rams Exchanged Possession 28 Times

GREEN BAY — If you left Lambeau Field with a slight touch of "tennis neck," here's why:

The Packers and Rams exchanged possession of the ball 28 times in the 2 hour and 21 minute spectacle... compare that with the 15 changeovers in the Packers-Colt game two weeks previous or the 19 in the Packer-Brown game last week and you have some idea of the traffic to and from the sidelines.

Don Chandler and Jon Kilgore delivered 11 punts between them and the two teams lost a total of six fumbles. And there was one interception.

Reasonably Low

The 24-13 score was reasonably low but there were seven scores — three touchdowns by the Packers and one by the Rams; two field goals by LA and one by GB. And then there were three missed field goals — one by Chandler and two by the Rams' Bruce Gossett.

The major difference from the earlier games, of course, was produced by the fumbles and the unusual here was that all six fumbles were lost to the opposition.

The Packers lost five of them and it's been a long time since the ball bounced the wrong way so many times for Green Bay in one game... some 11 years.

Lost Five of Six

The Packers and Lions hooked up in a game in Detroit on Thanksgiving Day in 1955 and each team lost five of six fumbles. Howie Ferguson lost two fumbles and Joe Johnson, Breezy Reid and Veryl Switzer one each for GB and Leon Hart lost two and Bobby Layne, Jack Christiansen and Dick Wolt once each for Detroit. The Packers lost, 24-10.

No Vince Lombardi team had lost five fumbles in a single game until Sunday and the previous high during his reign was four against the Vikings in Minneapolis in 1963. The Packers won the game 37-28, thanks to Herb Adderley's blocking of a last minute field goal by the Vikings and Hank Gremminger's return for a touchdown.

Cards' Fischer Out 6-7 Weeks With Bad Knee

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Cornerback Pat Fischer will be out of action six to seven weeks, St. Louis Cardinal Coach Charley Winner said Monday.

Fischer was injured Sunday in the Cardinals 34-28 National Football League victory over the Cleveland Browns at Cleveland.

Paul Hietpas Wins FVGC Tourney

KAUKAUNA — Paul "Tarz" Hietpas scored a net 61 to walk off with the President's Cup tourney at Fox Valley Golf Club Saturday, downing his nearest rival Willis "Lucky" Baer by 10 strokes.

Hietpas toured the par 36-37 layout in 39-44 and with a 22 handicap left the remainder of the 85-man field far in the distance. The winner was presented a trophy by Robert Minkebig, club president, at a dinner party Saturday evening.

The open stock car racing program concluded the season on the KK's quarter-mile track.

Lombardi Predicts Milwaukee To Get Another Baseball Club

GREEN BAY, Wis. (AP) — Coach Vince Lombardi of the Green Bay Packers predicted Monday that Milwaukee will have a baseball team next year or the year after.

"I think baseball is foolish if it doesn't put a team in Milwaukee," Lombardi said.

The coach raised the subject of baseball himself at a Monday morning news conference. Most of the previous discussion had been on the Packers 24-13 victory over the Los Angeles Rams Sunday.

Lombardi said, "It's up to the powers to be in Milwaukee to go out and get a team."

Lombardi disclaimed any inside information on the baseball situation and ended the discussion with the comment: "What the hell are we talking about baseball for?"

Milwaukee has been without baseball since the Braves moved to Atlanta after the 1965 season.

Purdue Loses 2 for Season

Wildcats' Smith, Otterbacher Will Miss ND Game

CHICAGO (AP) — Midwest Football Briefs:

PURDUE — Halfback Lou Sims and second-string quarterback Jim Klutcharch are lost for the season from injuries suffered in the 26-14 Notre Dame loss. Sims underwent surgery for a broken leg and Klutcharch has ruptured knee ligaments. Fifteen other regulars suffered minor injuries against the Irish.

NORTHWESTERN — Linebacker Bob Otterbacher and defensive end Sandy Smith will miss the Notre Dame game. Otterbacher suffered a twisted knee against Indiana and Smith has a foot injury.

ILLINOIS — In addition to the loss of halfback Cyril Pinder for the season, halfbacks Billy Huston and Dan Humay are sidelined with injuries. Huston is expected to be back in shape by Saturday.

NOTRE DAME — The Irish studied a Northwestern scouting report and players who saw service against Purdue were excused from workouts Monday. Sophomore Jim Seymour was named the game's outstanding player.

MICHIGAN STATE — No serious injuries were suffered by the Spartans who worked out in sweat clothes in preparation for Illinois. Coach Duffy Daugherty, discounting Illinois' two losses, said the Illini pose problems defensively.

OHIO STATE — The Buckeyes went through a brisk workout in preparation for Washington. Veteran halfback Bo Rein took part in the drill but wasn't at full speed.

MICHIGAN — Wolverine coaches were pleased with Michigan's defensive work against California last Saturday but Coach Bump Elliott said the offensive line needs more work on blocking. No serious injuries were reported.

SPORT FANS!

I BET YOU DIDN'T KNOW

By John Behnke

In the history of sports, only one man has ever been both a major league baseball manager, and the head coach of a big league pro football team... Do you know who he was? Answer is Hugo Bezdek, who managed the Pittsburgh Pirates in 1917, '18 and '19... And, later was head football coach of the then Cleveland Rams in 1937 and '38.

What were the most yards ever gained on one play by one runner in a football game? ... It's a record that can never be equalled again, because it was set when football fields were 110 yards long instead of the present 100... In 1884, Wylis Terry of Yale started 5 yards behind his goal line and raced 115 yards to set the long-gain record.

Over all the years of baseball, which league — the National or American — would you say has won the World Series the most times? ... There have been 62 World Series played in history and the American League has won 37 of them, while the National has won only 25.

I bet you didn't know... We now have in stock the suit with a great tradition. The HSM 100 suit by Hart Schaffner & Marx. The fabrics are premium worsteds and the look you buy is the look you keep.

Purdue Coach Says Griese Was Dazed on Second Play

CHICAGO (AP) — Purdue quarterback Bob Griese played the first quarter of the Notre Dame game in a daze and plays had to be sent to him from the sidelines, Boilermaker coach Jack Mollenkopf disclosed Monday.

Mollenkopf told the Chicago's American Quarterback Club: "In no way am I making excuses—you don't have to when you are beaten by a team that may be Notre Dame's best in the last quarter century — but Griese was dazed on the second play of the game Saturday when he couldn't get off a pass and was forced to eat the ball."

"He called time out and we wondered why. He couldn't remember formations and was dazed. We kept him in but gave him help sending in plays. He was all right after the first quarter."

Many Letters

before he went to Notre Dame. He might be mad at me if he knew the numbers of letters I didn't give him.

"Griese was just as great Saturday as he was at anytime last season. But he received little protection. He had to scramble and run for his life, but he still got off some good passes."

Purdue lost to Notre Dame 26-14. Griese passed for 178 yards. He was overshadowed by the sophomore combination of Terry Hanratty and 6-foot-4 Jim Seymour. Seymour grabbed 13 of Hanratty's 16 completions for 276 yards to set school reception records.

"Hanratty was given fine protection," said Mollenkopf. "And Seymour was just unbelievable. I got a little mad, at our pass defenders but after looking at game movies I apologized to them. One guy defending against Seymour is just not in the cards."

13 Boys Confess to Summer-Long String Of Appleton Burglaries

A summer-long string of burglaries in Appleton has been cleared up by police detectives. Authorities said today that 13 boys from the ages of 14 through 16 were involved.

Police have been investigating the series of thefts since May. Included are several house burglaries, and thefts from a music store, restaurants, a county club, a drug store and a beer truck.

Counties Need Aid Experts, Administrators, Official Says

Claims Government Too Complex For Part-Time Supervisors

BY BILL KNUTSON
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

LA CROSSE — Two major gaps in Wisconsin county government could be filled with the hiring of county administrators and federal aid coordinators, officials meeting here were told Monday afternoon.

Bernard Hillenbrand, director of the National Association of Counties, in an address at the Wisconsin County Boards Association convention, said the need for such positions exists in large and small counties, not only in Wisconsin, but nationally.

Hillenbrand, of Montgomery County, Md., maintained that county government today is too complex to be administered by "part-time supervisors." The job is getting "too tough" for county supervisors, Hillenbrand stated.

He called for a "single individual to personify the needs of the county." That individual, he said, should be a county executive, either appointed or elected and part or full-time, depending on the size of the county.

Broad Powers
The executive, who Hillenbrand said should have a professional administrative assistant, would possess broad powers to include some control over budgets and appointing of key department heads within the county.

"The job should be like that of a county governor," he explained.

Hillenbrand, in stressing the need for a county executive or administrator, told officials here, "we couldn't possibly run the state as we've been running the counties. It's a miracle that some counties in the United States can be made to operate at all."

He charged that the citizen no longer understands what county government is, how it is run or who runs it.

The county board, while it should be a "legislator," is not doing an effective job of legislating, because it spends too much time in an administrative capacity, Hillenbrand remarked.

Such a situation could be alleviated with the hiring of a county executive, officials were told.

Outagamie's Position
His proposal drew support from Sylvester Esler, Outagamie County Board chairman, who said his county four years ago created what developed into an executive secretary position. Outagamie is one of but a few Wisconsin counties maintaining such a post.

Said Esler: "The counties that do not have one (an executive secretary) do not know what they're missing. We need someone like this to keep us informed." Alvin Woehler is Outagamie County's first executive secretary.

Hillenbrand cited the $14.6 billion in federal monies to be made available to local government as reflective of the need for a federal aid coordinator at the county level.

He said it is "alarming" how little the counties are participating in many of the federal aid programs. "It is the citizenry that is losing out," Hillenbrand remarked.

A federal aid coordinator, he added, would be the "contact man" between his county and Police said McPeak was traveling north on Wyman Street about 3:18 a.m. when his car was struck by a car driven by Terrence M. McPeak, 26, Wyman Street.

Following the collision Michael McPeak's car hit a tree.

Damage to the two cars was estimated at $350.

Clintonville to Celebrate New Airline Service

City Businessmen, Airport Commission Plan for Ceremony

CLINTONVILLE — Plans for a brief ceremony Sunday afternoon at Clintonville Municipal airport in recognition of the resumption of scheduled airline service were discussed Monday night at a meeting of the airport commission at the city hall.

Midstate Air Commuter will provide the service, flying from Ashland to Clintonville to Chicago, with request stops at Madison. There will be two round trips daily, Monday through Friday, no trips on Saturday and one round trip on Sunday.

Clintonville has been without scheduled airline service since Feb. 28 when North Central Airlines terminated its service here.

The first flight will arrive at 4:15 p.m. Sunday, southbound for Chicago. Observance of the flight is planned between 3:30 and 4:30 p.m. with a ribbon cutting ceremony, introduction of dignitaries and, if available, the Clintonville Senior High School band or pep band.

Association of Commerce representatives were scheduled to meet with members of the airport commission today to work out further plans.

Watermelon Theft Costs Youth $50

WAUPACA — Two youths admitted charges in connection with the Sept. 10 theft of watermelons when they appeared Monday in Municipal Justice Court.

David Kealisher, 19, route 1, Amherst, was fined $50 and costs after pleading guilty to a charge of disorderly conduct.

Bobby N. Hebblewhite, 17, Stevens Point, pleaded guilty to littering, and his driver's license was restricted for 90 days.

Hebblewhite was the driver of the car when the melons were taken from the Walter Radley farm in the Town of Dayton. He was accompanied by Kealisher and three juveniles.

According to police the youths were seen taking the watermelons by a neighbor, Chester Inderdahl, who gave chase and detained the youths until police arrived.

District Rotary Officer Visits Clintonville Club

CLINTONVILLE — Emory Rogers, Marion, Rotary district governor, made his annual visit to the Rotary Club Monday noon at the Hotel Marson. Dr. H. A. Laatsch is club president.

Prior to the luncheon, the club assembly met with Rogers.

Waupaca Area Fire Conditions 'Critical'

12 Started Last Week, 4 Still Burning

WAUPACA — The summer's dry weather has brought fire conditions in Waupaca County to the critical point, according to Sid Miller, state forest ranger.

Twelve fires classed as forest fires broke out in the county last week. Four of these fires still are burning and may continue to burn for some time, Miller said. All are peat fires started on agriculture land which was being cleared.

Largest of the peat fires is in the Town of Lebanon, where more than 30 acres were burned over in the Lebanon swamp. The fire still is burning in a peat bog.

Another peat fire still burning is near Sunset Curve south of Weyauwega, where State Conservation Department fire rangers Sunday poured more than 5,000 gallons of water over land only one-fifth of an acre in size. It still is burning, Miller said.

Urges Caution
Miller said, "If anyone is contemplating setting a fire during a land clearing operation, don't do it because with the dry conditions nearly everything above ground will burn and roots and peat below the

On Weyauwega Farm

Finds Pair to Liking, Wild Goose Stays on

WEYAUWEGA — Hanibal, a goose of questionable ancestry, has adopted the Frank Gutbrods, route 1, Weyauwega.

Early in July, as the Gutbrods were driving home along the White Lake City Road, they spied a gosling waddling along the side of the blacktop. They decided to adopt the bird and took it home with them.

A pen was built for Hanibal, as she was dubbed, but the Gutbrods soon discovered that she enjoyed staying near her new-found friends. Every night Hanibal flies to the island in the middle of the lake. Each morning when Mrs. Gutbrod calls, the goose answers and returns to be fed.

The grey goose follows her owner like a pet dog. When Mrs. Gutbrod goes fishing, Hanibal swims alongside the boat and remains there until she returns to shore.

Hanibal has the coloring of a domestic goose but many characteristics of the wild variety. She sleeps standing on one leg with her head tucked under a wing. She also pulls on tree roots, another trait of the wild specie.

The Gutbrods are not taking chances on losing their pet to hunters. They plan to paint a red stripe on her neck, wing tips and stomach so she will readily be recognized as unfair game.

Seek Major Revisions

Appleton Groups to Campaign for Countywide Health Department

Another drive aimed at the eventual establishment of a countywide health department will be undertaken by the Appleton Board of Health later this week, it was learned Monday.

The Appleton League of Women Voters and Junior Women's Club is expected to lend strong support to revising the county's overall health setup.

In 1962 the Appleton Board of Health went on record favoring the countywide department and also received the support of the Outagamie County Medical Society, but no action was ever taken by the Outagamie County Board.

Dr. James Laird, city health commissioner, confirmed today that at Wednesday's meeting of the board of health, his department is submitting a resolution which in effect reaffirms the 1962 request for countywide reorganization of health programs.

Board Reorganizing
"The county board is doing some reorganizing and it is hoped this matter will get full attention now," Dr. Laird commented.

"Frankly speaking, I think we must consider this as being one metropolitan area," Dr. Laird said.

He explained that health problems should then be treated accordingly instead of having fragmentation as presented by the various cities, towns and villages — and county — having their own health divisions.

"We are at a point in this growing area that one problem in an area affects the others," Dr. Laird said.

It would be impossible to contact each unit of government in the county to band together," he added, "and that is why the county board is being asked to consider a countywide health department."

The local health official said it was merely a logical place to start and he hoped the recommendation would be better received than it was four years ago.

It was learned that a survey conducted of Women Voters and the Research Council of United Community Service during the period 1961-65, revealed areas in Outagamie County where the presence of unwholesome conditions is a potential danger to the whole county.

The report of health services and conditions also discloses that:

—The county system of 31 local boards of health, each with its own health officer, whose training, duties and concern vary widely from unit to unit, is neither efficient, nor economical and equitable in its health services to the people of the county.

Rapid Growth
—Population growth in the region during the past 10 years has been one of the highest in the state and an increase in population is inevitably accompanied by an increase in problems of food, water and supplies.

At present the Outagamie County Health services, except for public health nursing services, are chiefly of a complaint-answering nature.

The resolution before the board of health this week says the health and welfare of the people of Appleton is directly related to that of people residing in areas surrounding the city.

The Appleton Council will be asked to offer cooperation and assistance to the Outagamie County Board in developing and carrying out "a more adequate county health department."

St. Vincent Flag Pole

A 62-year-old man perched on top of a 65-foot high flag pole in the yard of Villa St. Vincent, Monday, was the talk of the town.

Irvin W. Darrow, 207 Lima St., is really a steeplejack, who has been making his journey up flag poles, steeples, water towers and smokestacks since 1930.

A slight man, 140 pounds, Darrow looks exactly as one would expect a pole climber to look.

Stern, tough, confident. Darrow has a sense of humor and a manner about him though, that one would not ordinarily associate with a pole climber. He is warm and outgoing and carries on an easy, light conversation.

All he needed to shinny up the aluminum pole was a wooden seat attached to the pole by a rope, and a pair of metal rings used as stirrups, also attached to the pole by a rope.

Rope Supports

Each of the ropes was wrapped around the pole twice and firmly bound with a special knot. The wrapping made the ropes bind against the metal of the pole to form a firm support.

When Darrow pushed the seat up a few inches the foot support bore the entire weight of the man and his equipment, then the seat would take the entire weight while the rope holding the stirrups was pulled up a few inches.

After more than 15 minutes and a number of adjustments in the ropes as the pole tapered towards the top, Darrow reached the tip.

He ran a nylon rope through the pulley and slowly descended the pole in just the opposite manner he had ascended.

Valley Boy Scout Council Announces October Calendar

Cub Scouts will put on vaudeville shows and Boy Scouts will compete in scouting skill contests during October according to the month's program themes announced by Richard Loesch, scout commissioner of the Valley Council, Boy Scouts of America.

Cub Scout Vaudeville is the October theme for 64 Cub Scout packs in the valley council, and each of the dens in a Cub Scout pack will prepare a puppet show, magic show, hootenanny, musical review, pantomime and charade for the monthly pack meeting.

Most of the Cub Scout packs also plan to take part in Fire Prevention Week projects and to work on earning the "Family

Classified Data Project Halted

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Defense Department has suspended a proposed research project into how people react when they see — or do not see — classified data and military secrets.

The suspension followed a protest by Rep. John E. Moss, D-Calif., chairman of the House Government Information subcommittee. Moss said several newspaper articles suggested the study would contribute to news management.

Deputy Secretary of Defense Cyrus R. Vance told Moss in a letter made public Friday that the proposed study at Ohio State University had nothing to do with public information programs but was designed instead to help develop a more effective security program.

Vance said, however, the project would be suspended until a review determines "whether the purpose and scope of the work can be redefined with more clarity."

Alert pack citation as a part of the emergency preparedness program of the Boy Scouts, Loesch said.

Practice Skills The 75 Boy Scout troops in the council will practice such skills as first aid, fire building, cooking, signaling, knot tying, compass, and map orientation to prepare for a troop rally that will feature competitive skill events for its patrols.

Suggested activities for the high-school-age explorer posts during October include a Halloween party, a meeting for prospective members as a part of the Follow the Rugged Road roundup, and a car rally to test explorer's navigating and driving skill, Loesch said.

Ray Keck, Waushara County, secretary; William Wirtala, Taylor County, treasurer; Charles Hoffman, Taylor County, vice chairman, and Lawrence Dahl, Tigerton, chairman. Dahl was elected to his fourth term as chairman. (Post-Crescent Photo)

Kimberly Police Report Varied Vandalism Acts

KIMBERLY — Village police reported numerous complaints on vandalism over the weekend over a wide portion of the village.

Representatives of Morris Construction Co., Oshkosh, working on a project north of W. Kimberly Avenue, reported hydraulic fluid drained from a tractor, about 16 gallons of gasoline siphoned from tanks and a truck headlight broken.

Lloyd Hermen, 117 Birch St., reported all windows on school buses, parked near 204 W. Kimberly Ave., sprayed with green and red paint. Kimberly-Clark officials reported numerous broken bottles in the woodyards near the Chicago and North Western Railway tracks and evidence of numerous attempts to start fires.

Darrell Larson, principal of Kimberly High School, reported wood stolen from the construction project at the school and found later near the railroad tracks. Trees were reported cut down and glass shot out of windows and doors at the sewage plant. At Sunset Point Park, toilet bowls were blocked and an effort made to tear plumbing fixtures and partitions from the walls.

Professor Talks to Clergy On Negro Race Relations

"The Negro leader is being pulled in two directions—either he is an Uncle Tom, in which case the Negro people spit upon him, or he is a Negro nationalist, and the white people are against him," the Appleton Area Clergymen's Association was told Monday.

Speaking on the topic of race relations at the monthly meeting of the newly-formed organization consisting of clergymen of all denominations, was Dr. Francis Broderick, dean of Lawrence University.

"What the Negro really wants is to be absorbed into the American society, in spite of all the talk by the radical groups," the dean said, "but they want it on terms other than those outlined for them by the white society," he added.

New X-Ray System Gives 3-Dimensional View of Human Heart

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (AP) — Development of an X-ray fluoroscopy system which enables physicians to see the inside of the human heart and other organs in three dimensions was announced today by General Electric Co.

The system, which does not require the use of special binoculars of stereo glasses, permits a specialist to perform heart catheterization in up to one-half the usual time and with reduced risk and discomfort to the patient, the company said.

The system, known as a stereo fluoricon, provides images of the interior of organs in their natural three-dimensional state and can be directly viewed in a lighted room.

world and for a while, are accepted by both groups. Broderick said, but "lately King has not been successful with his own people because his victories have been hollow."

"Among the radical groups he is an Uncle Tom because the delivery on all he has advocated has been slow and the people are no longer satisfied," Broderick said.

"And more and more Negro people are turning to violence—not because they are violent by nature but because it gives them an imagined victory in a white world," the dean said.

Psychological Feeling "There often is a feeling that it is psychologically better to die fighting back," he added.

Broderick also told the audience that the reasons for the divided leadership in Negro communities is that the leaders are not firm in maintaining contact with their people.

"But as expectations continue to rise, we can expect that the leaders speaking for violence will get stronger unless the expected results are delivered by other non-violent groups," he said.

Conditions Critical for Waupaca Fires ground will also burn." The effects of the June and July dry period still are being felt, Miller said. Since that time, there has not been enough rain to saturate the ground to the point to render even roots noncombustible, he added.

Of the 12 fires last week, four were started during land-clearing operations, two were started by electric fences and the remainder were started by trains. Four fires were started by a train Sunday along the Soo Line Railroad right of way, east of Fremont.

Additional Costs In addition to damage caused by fires, additional costs can arise for a farmer who starts a fire and must call the state for aid in controlling it, Miller said. The farmer must pay the costs of the forest rangers and for state equipment used. If it spreads to someone else's land, he must also pay for damages to that land, Miller said.

In addition to the four fires east of Fremont, Miller also was called to two fires in the Chain O'Lakes area Sunday. Another peat fire still burning is one on the north end of the Iola Mill pond. It was started in a land-clearing operation, the forest ranger said.

the various state and federal agencies and could be the liaison between the county and units of government therein.

Some 450 counties already have created the position of federal aid coordinator, officials heard.

Both of Hillenbrand's proposals were supported by a three-man panel of county board chairmen.

Of the federal aid coordinator,

Dane County Board Chairman George H. Harb remarked, "Whether or not you like the Great Society programs, I don't — let's take full advantage of them."

Jerome E. Martin of Manitowoc County thought a county administrator and a federal aids coordinator could "work as one" in a county of his size.

Donald L. Quistorff, chairman of the Kewaunee County Board, warned that in small counties such as his, it would be difficult to "break tradition" to create the two positions, although he said he favors such a move.
